GIRL EXPOSES BOMB PLOT

EVIDENCE OF PLOT SOUGHT IN HUB

By FRANK CHARLTON.
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—America's ablest secret service officers arrived here today and joined the New York police and other Federal investigators in the hunt for the "men higher up" in the bomb plot revealed by Robert Fay, who claims to be a lieutenant in the German army.

BETRAYED BY WOMAN.

This, if true, would lay the conspiracy at the door of the German government and make the affair one of international concern.

It is said that the officers who joined the investigation today were sent here by the personal direction of President Wilson and that all developments in the case are immediately sent to Washington to keep the President fully informed.

The Federal investigators are said to be assisted by a girl. This girl, whose name is being shielded, was on the "inside" of the plot. For some reason, however, she determined to betray Fay and Scholz and delivered into the hands of an agent of the Department of Justice an incriminating letter. This letter related to the purchase of explosives by the two Germans.

The search is not confined to New York, but extends to Boston, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Chicago, Pittsburgh and other large cities.

A fifth member of the conspirator's band, Paul Selb, who was taken in charge today by the police of Weehawken, N. J., and government agents, declared that the plotters intended to blow up the great plant of the Ameri-

Human Freight Car of 672 Pounds, Dies

CHICAGO, Oct. 26.—Edward Dunkhorst, thirty-eight, of Syracuse, known as "the human freight car" on account of his enormous size, is dead. He was six feet seven inches in height and weighed 672 pounds.

LONDON, Oct. 26.—Lady Ralph Paget, one of the leaders of the British Red Cross in Serbia, has been captured by the Bulgarians, according to word received here.

Lady Paget was at Uskub when the Bulgarians captured that important city, and fell into the hands of the Bulgars.

This news was contained in a dispatch received by her mother, Lady Arthur Paget. Lady Arthur Paget is a daughter of the late Paran Stevens of New York. She has figured prominently in English life for some years. An Minnie Stevens, she held a high position in New York society, and her marriage to Lord Arthur Paget only widened her sphere.

Her husband, as Lieutenant-General Sir Arthur Henry Fitzroy Paget, was at one time commander-in-chief of the army in Ireland. She and the Countess of Aberdeen at one time had a sharp tiff as a result of Lady Paget's refusal to take an active part in the Countess' charitable activities.

Lady Ralph Paget has been in Serbia since early in the war, and at one time was reported to have been shot.

MELLEN'S MONOPOLY PLAN

NEW HAVEN WANTED TO "HOG IT"

By L. V. B. RUCKER.
Staff Correspondent of the International News Service.

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—"Our lines should be exclusively in the territory reached by us."

That was the policy of Charles S Mellen, while he was second vice-president and later president of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad during that line's expansion period.

"We are injuring only those who do nothing for us," was another sentence of Mellen's, read by the government today, in the New Haven consolidation trial, in which William Rockefeller and nine other past and present New Haven directors are defendants.

"The New York Central and Boston & Albany should be business in our territory only at the New Haven local rates," was another remark of Mellen's.

These sentences were high lights in a long printed letter which Mellen sent to President Clark of the New Haven with the request that copies be sent to all directors.

In the letter Mellen set forth in detail why the New Haven should control the freight business of all New England and his proposed plans for completely shutting out the New York Central, the New York & New England and the Boston & Albany.

Mellen was prepared completely to gobble up the entire New England business by absorbing arbitraries, refusing to advance charges to connecting and competing lines, and such methods.

Upwards of an hour was consumed in reading Mellen's plan for the unification by the New Haven of all the transportation facilities of New England and the shutting out of that territory of the New York & New England and the New York Central and allies, known to Mellen and his associates as the Central lines.

This was got into the record in the shape of a long printed letter from Mellen to President Clark, a note from Mellen to Clarke asking that copies of his letter be sent to the New Haven directors and Clark's letter to the directors enclosing copies of Mellen's letter.

In this Mellen mapped out a comprehensive plan whereby the New Haven was to gobble up all competing lines in New England. The burden of Mellen's letter was that the New Haven must control New England at whatever cost and that to do that would not hurt anybody who could strike back.

A letter from Charles P. Clark to R. D. Mills of the Boston & Albany said the New Haven had decided to accept freight from that road for Springfield west at 20 per cent. on the Chicago rate and from Springfield at 15-2-3 per cent.

"I have forever doomed myself to oblivion," wrote Clark in a spirit of irony, "as a railroad man."

"As a railroad man I am a failure. You friend Mellen says my action is a sign of weakness."

"Was not that action taken after your printed letter?" Attorney Swacker asked.

"It was," answered Mellen. "But we were only granting the Boston & Maine and Albany Railway the same rate they demanded from us."

Britain Withdraws Offer of Cyprus

By International News Service.

LONDON, Oct. 26.—Sir Edward Grey, the British foreign secretary, announced in the House of Commons this afternoon that the offer of Cyprus to Greece had been withdrawn. It will be recalled that the entrance of Bulgaria into the European war was preceded by an announcement from Grey that further offers to the Sofia government would be useless.

The Cabinet held a long session today to discuss the Balkan situation and the report of Sir Ian Hamilton on the situation at the Dardanelles.

Betting Is Now Running 10 to 8 on the Governor

Brisk betting on the State election was reported today in the down-town section of Boston.

The prevailing odds were 10 to 8 that Governor Walsh would win.

The odds were influenced today by the "Walsh sentiment" that is said to be running strong and steady.

Where two weeks ago the betting was even money on Walsh and McCall, the odds shifted within a week to 10 to 9, and again today shifted to 10 to 8.

RAILROADS REFUSE TO YIELD

WORCESTER, Oct. 26.—Thirty freight handlers at the New Haven terminal here today presented a demand for a wage of $2 a day, instead of the $1.85 they were receiving. The agent said he had no power to grant the increase. The men at once went out on strike.

Railroads involved in the freight handlers' strike today reaffirmed their decision not to meet the demands of the men. Mayor Curley, who is hopeful that representatives of the roads and of the men may be brought together tomorrow for a conference, admitted that the situation had become grave.

A committee of the New Haven freight handlers met General Superintendent C. N. Woodward of the Eastern Grand Division of the New Haven road today. The conference had been arranged before the New Haven freight men struck. The men told Mr. Woodward their union had taken the matter out of their hands, and that the decision on the strike now rested with the joint council representing strikers on all three roads, the New Haven, Boston & Maine and Boston & Albany.

Mr. Woodward replied that the New Haven would not deal with such a joint body. He said the New Haven would meet a committee of its own men, but would not treat with the joint council.

At the same time President James H. Hustis of the Boston & Maine sent a letter to Mayor Curley, repeating his refusal to take the strikers back to work pending arbitration proceedings. He wrote:

POLICY UNCHANGED.

"Appreciating fully the serious position in which these men were liable to place themselves, they were warned of the danger which might result from their proposed action. The railroad has a public duty to perform, and when the freight handlers left their work its freight houses could not be closed, and it could not cease the handling of shipments. To take their places the railroad, therefore, obtained other men, who, as I said yesterday, were employed with the understanding that they were to be given regular work if they were found to be fitted for it.

"Under these circumstances I do not see how the railroad can change its position."

The New Haven road, it was learned today, is lodging its strike-breakers at Braintree, taking the men back and forth daily in special cars.

MAYOR STILL HOPEFUL.

The old freight handlers who are now striking have been paid off and have been required to surrender their passes on the road, while it is understood that if they now desire to come back to work they must start in as other new men do, at $1.75 a day, and work up to the $2.50 wage they were receiving.

The Mayor still hoped today to effect a compromise between the "nothing to arbitrate" stand of the road, and the "everything to arbitrate" plea of the men.

can Agricultural Company at Roosevelt, N. J.

The company manufactures chemicals used in high explosives and is a subsidiary of the Standard Oil Company.

Seib added that the plant was to have been blown up last Thursday night, but that vigilance of the company's guards prevented an attempt.

Seib is held as a material witness against Fay and his co-conspirator, Walter L. Scholz. Seib's story denies the statement of Fay that no attempt was to be made to cripple munition plants.

BERNSTORFF TALKS.

Count von Bernstorff, the German Ambassador to the United States, at the Ritz-Carlton today disavowed any connection with the Germans under arrest in the plot to blow up ammunition carrying ships.

"I never heard of any of the men to the best of my recollection," said the German Ambassador. "As far as I can learn, Fay, who claims to have been an officer in the German army, was never in the army at all. I have no way of finding out if he gave a false name, but so far as I can find out, he was not connected with the German government.

"The German government had absolutely nothing to do with the activities of these men."

Washington dispatches say that Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor conferred with President Wilson today for forty minutes and it is understood that the labor chief made known some highly important information he had received concerning the propaganda to destroy munition factories in this country.

No announcement was made at the White House following his visit. Gompers would neither deny nor affirm the report that he had discussed the propaganda matter with the President. He said that they had discussed legislation coming up the next Congress which would affect labor. Gompers appointment with the President was made hurriedly.

Though men are under arrest the Federal detective bureau says that the ringleaders in the alleged conspiracy are still at large. The prisoners, in addition to Fay, are his brother-in-law, Walter L. Scholz, Paul Daeche and Dr. Herbert Kienzle.

A warrant has been issued for Max Breitung, secretary and treasurer of the Oil Well Device Corporation of No. 11 Wall street, who is said to be a cousin of Edward N. Breiting. It was Edward N. Breitung, the millionaire banker, who bought the Hamburg-American liner Dacia and sent her to Europe under the American flag, where the ship sailed a cargo of cotton were confiscated by the French government.

A warrant has been issued for Max Breitung, secretary and treasurer of the Oil Well Device Corporation of No. 11 Wall street, who is said to be a cousin of Edward N. Breiting. It was Edward N. Breitung, the millionaire banker, who bought the Hamburg-American liner Dacia and sent her to Europe under the American flag, where the ship sailed a cargo of cotton were confiscated by the French government.

Max Breitung is charged with conspiracy and he is believed to know something about a $30,000 fund which was raised by German-Americans to be used in preventing the shipment of war supplies to the allies.

The willingness of Fay and Scholz to confess everything alarmed the authorities on a vigorous hunt for the "men higher up."

High officials of the government see in the bomb plot additional reason for far more drastic neutrality laws and Congress will me asked by President Wilson to enact them.

Already drafts of proposed laws, which would give the federal government absolute power to punish sedition, espionage and conspiracy to commit violence are being made by Assistant Attorney - General Warren and will be submitted to Secretary Lansing, and the President for approval.

Meanwhile the State Department has asked for a complete report on the case.

The man to be used as a government witness when the time comes, it is also said, has already confessed that the conspirators made a speech from at least one well-known German in New York, and later spent the money for the purchase of explosives, which he turned over to Fay.

A list of other contributors to the fund has been furnished to the secret service. Each man named on this list is under surveillance. Arrests will only be made where the proof is positive that money was furnished with a knowledge of the use to which it was to be put.

The characteristic thoroughness of the plotters provoked the admiration of the detectives who made the discovery. They had one of the fastest motor boats in New York bay, it was declared yesterday. In this boat agents of the conspirators made secret tests of every munition-carrying ship that sails out of New York.

FAY TAKES ALL THE BLAME FOR THE CHIEF DETAILS OF THE PLOT

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—The complete story of the plot to injure ships carrying munitions of war was told to the AMERICAN by Robert Fay, the German army lieutenant.

Mr. Jonnerson, head of the German secret service stationed at Brussels, he said, supplied the money—the amount of $2,000 with which to carry out his scheme.

Max Greitung and Dr. Herbert Kienzle, two well known New Yorkers, he said, assisted him to a certain degree in obtaining the necessary explosives.

"Lieutenant Fay, you have been fighting on the Marne and other battlefields that the thought struck me that it would be possible to stop the transportation of artillery munitions from the United States.

"I went to the colonel of my regiment with my plans, and he sent me to Mr. Jonnerson at Brussels. I told me that Mr. Jonnerson was head of the particular branch of the German secret service which handled such business.

"I presented my plan to that official. He sent me over with the idea of finding out for myself if I could do anything that would be advisable to carry out the idea. He knew all about my machine and everything.

"He supplied me with money. I had a few dollars of my own, but he gave me a little more than $2,000. Then I came over.

"I want to impress upon you again that the whole proposition was to prevent the transportation of artillery munitions.

"I did not care if they shipped hundreds of shiploads of infantry materials, because while it is customary for the French lines to keep up an almost continuous rifle fire, in all my experience fighting at the front, at the Marne and elsewhere, I have seen but two men hurt by infantry bullets. This reflects upon the French infantry aim.

SOUGHT TO STOP MUNITIONS.

"The only dangerous thing for us is the tremendous amount of artillery munitions sent over from America. And that is what I wished to stop.

"I felt sure that by blowing off the rudder post or possibly the propeller, I could have cost so much delay, annoyance and danger to the ships that they would be seriously interfered with.

"After I had been here a little while I went to see Captain Boy-ed. Captain Boy-ed told me I was doing a very dangerous thing, which would cause political complications. He said he most assuredly could not approve of it and he warned me not to do anything of the kind.

"I went to see Mr. von Papen. He has strictly forbidden me to try to attach any of these things to any ships leaving any harbors in the United States."

"Did he say anything about going to Canada and attaching the mines to vessels leaving there?" was asked.

"Anyone, who wishes, can read between the lines of what I have just said."

"It is true that I have seen Mr. Max Breitung and Dr. Kienzle, but they have no connection with my working whatsoever, except that upon my approaching them about learning of the possibilities of obtaining explosives, they recommended me to sources where they thought I might get what I wanted."

"You got the explosives from the places they recommended?"

"Yes, I got them. They did not go with me. I went there alone."

EXONERATES DR. KIENZLE.

Again discussing Dr. Kienzle, Lieutenant Fay said:

"I want to make it clear that Dr. Kienzle has never known any details whatsoever of what I was going to do. To my knowledge he has never seen any of my machines and does not know the mechanical nature of them.

"I assume, though, he was more or less aware of my purpose. But frequently he told me he did not want to know any details of my plans.

"Another thing I want to say is that I never received any money from any of the gentlemen I have met casually. In fact, everything was financed out of my own pocket.

"My brother-in-law, Mr. Scholz, knew what the apparatus was for and assisted me in having parts made, but he was not informed about every detail of what I was going to do. He does not know what people I have had dealings with.

"It is unfortunate Mr. Daeche was dragged into this affair.

"All that he did was to go to Bridgeport for me simply to find out if it would have been possible for me to obtain anything there—I mean explosives. He was not supposed to bring any materials down. In reference to that, he never took a handbag or valise with him."

"Did you ever experiment in New York Harbor or any other place with your bombs?

"Don't call them bombs," he said. "They are mines, not bombs. I do not know whether it would be proper for me to say that I had made any experiments. If I said that I did it might make my predicament worse than it is now. But I will say that I never attached a mine to a vessel leaving any harbor of the United States.

"I also want to take this opportunity to deny the statements which have been made that my mines could be attached to a fort. That is ridiculous. I did not want to injure anything belonging to the United States. I have nothing against the United States.

"I realize that the industries of this country at the present time are entirely depending upon war orders. But I would not think of blowing up munition factories. With their force of wreckers they could readjust any loss in a few days, and then things would be humming again.

FAY'S PURPOSE TO DISABLE, NOT TO DESTROY LINERS, HE SAYS

AMERICANS ARE BROAD ENOUGH TO SEE HIS VIEWS, PLOTTER SAYS

"Don't you think that your action as a German subject in coming over to do such things on American soil and under the American flag is cause to irritate the American public?" he was asked.

"That is a fine question. I will be glad to answer it," he replied with a smile. He stopped his walking and then continued:

"Write that question down as you have asked it. Here is my answer: In my opinion, the American people have rather strong nerves, and I think they are broad-minded enough to understand my point of view."

"Will I engage counsel?" he asked in reply to another question. "Well, that is a question. I am not familiar with your American laws and your courts. I do not see that I have done anything wrong. Is it wrong to attempt to prevent munitions of war from getting over to the allies? I don't think it is. I never carried out my plans. Have I?

"I don't think I will engage counsel. I will make no defence except what I have told you. However, if any patriotic Germans in this country want to engage counsel for me, they are at liberty to do so, and I will welcome a lawyer.

"I was working to save the soldiers on the battlefields. They are being killed by your American-made artillery munitions.

"Also remember that my mines were not powerful enough to sink a ship. They would merely have disabled them. I didn't want to take any lives. That was not my purpose.

"My motive is very clear, and I can defend it."

"I might also say at this point that I have never been to Washington in my life. Neither have I been to the Ritz-Carlton Hotel in New York. I do not know where Cedarhurst is. I have never been the Imperial German Ambassador, Count von Bernstorff, in my life.

"When I visited Captain Boy-ed and Mr. von Papen it was in their offices in New York."

"Did you consult with any other persons in New York City other than those you have mentioned?"

"Not a soul; not a single soul."

Lieutenant Fay was then asked if it was not true that he had left Weehawken on trips which kept him away several days at a time. This information had been obtained by AMERICAN reporters who canvassed the neighborhood in which he had lived.

"No, I never left New York. That is, I never went far away. I might have taken little trips to places in the immediate neighborhood, but that is all."

Aristocracy.

A well balanced compound of right instincts, careful breeding and worthy heredity which makes the human thoroughbred.

Utterly independent of clothes, or race, or place, or circumstance. Bred in the bone—fundamental—unchanging.

The same thing in a cigarette.

Independent of label or outside characteristics. An inseparable and distinctive character which makes it the selection of the pick of humanity.

This is why they call Rameses "The aristocrat of cigarettes."

Its distinctive and characteristic flavor does not appeal to all men.

There is none of the soft mediocrity of less distinguished brands.

But nobody ever changes from Rameses.

CASE AGAINST HARVARD MEN SETTLED

After several days of Grand Jury investigation into charges of illegal registration in Cambridge, District Attorney Corcoran of Middlesex county today declared that so far as Harvard students were concerned the matter was settled, but that he intended to prosecute persons responsible for violation of the election laws.

This announcement followed two long conferences yesterday between Professor Felix Frankfurter of the Harvard Law School faculty and the District Attorney, and the appearance of Professor Frankfurter as a voluntary witness before the Grand Jury.

District Attorney Corcoran said:

"So far as the students were concerned the registration matter has been settled. The college authorities and I are acting in perfect accord, and they have agreed to cooperate with me to see that students in no way violate the law.

"There is no doubt on the evidence we have gone over that a number of young men who claimed residence in Cambridge and wanted to vote there had no right to do so.

"For my part, however, I desire to do nothing to the injury of the young men who were misled by cheap politicians in the Harvard square section of the city. Neither do I desire to do injury to the college itself through its connection with such a situation.

"As to the persons who are responsible for the violation of the law, it is my intention to prosecute them to the full extent of the law."

Student at Yale Is Accidentally Shot

NEW HAVEN, Ct., Oct. 26.—Henry Norman Grieb, a Yale sophomore, of Scarsdale, N. Y., was shot at his rooms on High street today and is in the New Haven Hospital in a serious condition. At the hospital it was said that the shooting was accidental and that his shotgun was discharged into his shoulder and lung while he was cleaning it.

Free Craft Ashore Off Castle Island

The Conqueror, a fishing schooner, inward bound from the Behring grounds with 50,000 pounds of fish aboard, ran aground off Castle Island early today and remained fast until two tugs came to her rescue shortly after noon. The extent of her damage has not been ascertained.

540,000 Pounds in Mackerel Catches

Today 200,000 pounds of small mackerel were brought in to the South Boston wharf and 340,000 pounds were received at Gloucester. Most of the large catch will go into the freezers for future consumption. Good prices are maintained. One boat today with a crew of four men brought into port an $800 catch.

Achy Joints Foretell Trouble

A creaky joint often predicts rain. It also foretells inward trouble. It may mean that the kidneys are not filtering the blood and are allowing poisonous uric acid to clog the blood and cause trouble.

Bad backs, rheumatic pains, sore, aching joints, headaches, dizziness, nervous troubles, heart flutterings, and urinary disorders are some of the effects of weak kidneys and if nothing is done there's danger of dropsy, gravel or Bright's disease. Use Doan's Kidney Pills, the most widely used, the best recommended kidney remedy in the world.

Everett People Testify

H. M. Terry, 79 Glendale St., Everett, says: "I have often taken Doan's Kidney Pills for lumbago and rheumatic pains and I have found them of more benefit than anything else. If I overexert or take cold it brings on backache. Sometimes I am laid up for days. Doan's Kidney Pills always bring me relief."

SURGEONS FIND REAL LESSONS IN THE WAR

More than 1,500 surgeons attending the sixth annual session of the Clinical Congress of Surgeons here today witnessed more operations in Boston hospitals. Many of the clinics there were comments on the surgical lessons of the European war.

The women folk with the visitors, spent the day sightseeing, including a visit to the battleships in the harbor. On board the battleship Georgia, Surgeon Lachabetter and Past Assistant Surgeon Ames welcomed the visitors.

Dr. Elisa Taylor Ransom of Boston, who has been notably successful with "Twilight Sleep" treatments, is one of the surgeons taking an active part in the conference.

The records of all cases operated upon at clinics are to be kept and will be available for surgeons who wish to follow up the results of the operations.

Tonight there will be a meeting at the Copley-Plaza with addresses dealing for the most part with topics of dental surgery. At the same time at a meeting at the Boston Medical Library, surgical specialties will be described, particularly "skin grafting."

FRENCH DEFEAT BULGARS IN SOUTH

Army of the Orient and occupying the region of Strumitza. They were completely defeated.

"Reports that the French troops have been thrown back on the right bank of the Vardar River are false."

A dispatch from Salonika says:

"All the Bulgarian troops in southern Serbia have been driven back to the east bank of the Vardar River, according to reports received from the French expeditionary force. Serbian troops are advancing upon Veles. The retreating Bulgarians attempted to destroy that part of the railroad lying west of the Vardar, but were attacked before they had done serious damage."

While the Serbs and allies are achieving success in the southern operations of the Balkan campaign, the Bulgarians, according to an Athens dispatch, have cut across nearly all of Serbia to the north and taken Prizrend, only five miles from the Albanian frontier.

ALLIES HURRY TO FRONT.

Anglo-Saxon and French reinforcements are pouring into Southern Serbia as fast as troop trains can carry them north from Salonika.

The Serbian War Office admits the fall of Uskub, but the Bulgar army, which has penetrated Serbia, is in danger of being cut off by the French forces, which are fighting their way northward along the Bulgar-Serb frontier.

A telegram from Rome bears an unconfirmed report that the Greek cabinet has resigned. If this proves true, political conditions in the Balkans may once more transcend military operations in public interest.

From Bucharest it is reported that the Roumanian cabinet is keenly watching Greece, and it is becoming more and more likely that these two countries will act in concert, although there is no treaty agreement between them.

Meanwhile the Austro-German and Bulgarian armies are exerting every ounce of their strength to win a decisive victory in order to sway Greek and Roumanian sentiment to their side.

SERBIAN TOWNS TAKEN.

Sofia officially announces the capture of Negotin and Prahovo in the extreme northeastern corner of Serbia, and Vienna states that Austrian cavalry has reached Valjevo, fifty miles southwest of Belgrade.

The Allies are reported to have asked the Serbian army to resist the Teutonic and Bulgarian invaders for only five more days, by which time England and France hope to have big and powerful armies in Serbia. But while the Allies are sending men and guns into Southern Serbia, the Germans are sending men into northern Serbia in a never-ceasing stream.

Military experts who are following Balkan affairs closely have begun to turn their eyes toward Italy. The Italian government is calling more men to the colors, but whether they are to be used to increase the pressure against the Austrians or whether they will be sent into the Balkans is an unanswered question.

LYNN WIDOW IS BRIDE OF SHERIFF J. R. FAIRBAIRN

Sheriff John R. Fairbairn of Middlesex County and Mrs. Minnie E. Browne of Lynn were married at noon today at the residence of the Rev. Francis L. Heal, pastor of the Church of the Assumption, in East Cambridge.

That the sheriff was to be married was known only to his personal friends. The ceremony was very quiet; there were no attendants.

After the ceremony the sheriff and Mrs. Fairbairn left for a honeymoon to New York and other points.

Mrs. Browne is a widow; the sheriff is a widower. He has been sheriff of the county for some twenty years. He is over sixty years old.

The sheriff and his bride do not expect to return to Cambridge even for election day. The sheriff's re-election is not considered in any doubt. He had a fight in the primaries, but won by 16,000 votes, and his election is considered a mere ratification of that choice.

The sheriff is a Mason and an Elk, and is prominent in other fraternal organizations. His bride has also been prominent in fraternal societies, and it is reported the sheriff met her at an entertainment given by one of the orders to which he belongs.

Mrs. Minnie E. Browne of Lynn, who was married today to Sheriff John R. Fairbairn of Middlesex county, snapped today just after the wedding.

Bad Complexions Are Now Easily Discarded

Every woman has it in her own hands to possess a beautiful and youthful complexion. No matter how soiled, faded or coarse the cuticle, ordinary cucumber wax will actually remove it, and Nature will substitute a skin as soft, clear and lovely as a child's. The action of the wax is not drastic, but gentle and agreeable. Minute particles of the old skin come off day by day, yet no evidence of the treatment is discernible, other than the gradual complexional improvement. One ounce of cucumber wax, procurable at any drug store, suffices for most cases. It is put on at bedtime like cold cream and taken off in the morning with warm water. It is a wonderful method of eradicating freckles, liver spots, moth patches, blackheads and pimples.

Wrinkles can be treated with benefit by bathing the face in a lotion prepared by dissolving 1 ounce powdered saxolite in ½ pint witch hazel. Immediate results are secured.—Advertisement.

How to Wave Hair to Appear Naturally Curly

You won't need to resort to the parching, scorching irons if you will adopt the simple plan I will mention. Isn't that good news?

At night merely apply a little ingle-mentho to the scalp and hair, briskly rubbing the lotion into the hair from root to end. The lotion, I assure you, is delightfully cool, refreshing and bright in appearance, suggestive of "hidden sunshine." It will prove beneficial to the hair, instead of making it brittle and dead-looking as do the hot iron devices. When you arise in the morning, instead of your tresses being mean and contrary, you will find them quite easy to do up in any form, and there will be no more unsightly ends or fluffiness about the hair. I would suggest that you ask your druggist for the liquid ingle-mentho, as it is the original, and a little goes a long way, and you can get a little more than a month's treatment for merely 75 cents. Hygienic Review.—Advertisement.

Build Up Weak Kidneys

Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, nervousness, backache, neuralgia, dizziness, sleeplessness and bladder disorders come from weak, sluggish kidneys. Put them in good working order by getting from your druggist one ounce of Rheumagallic; take two teaspoonfuls in one-half glass of water before breakfast each morning and in a few days your kidneys will perform their duties in a regular manner. Flush the clogged kidneys and stimulate them to action with rheumagallic. It cleans out the stomach and intestines of all poisonous matter and leaves the intestinal canal clean and sweet.—Advertisement.

BERLIN REPORTS SUCCESSES ON ALL FRONTS

By International News Service.

BERLIN, Oct. 26.—German successes in the Balkan, western and eastern theatres of war were announced by the War Office today. In the Balkan theatre, German troops, it was stated, captured heights along the Drina river, east of Visegrad, while south of the Danube from three more Serbian towns were captured.

The following report from the general staff was issued:

"Western theatre of war: German positions 250 yards long north of Le Mesnil, in Champagne, which the French had captured on October 24, were retaken by the Germans yesterday. Five officers and 150 French soldiers were taken prisoners. Only one small trench northeast of Le Mesnil is in the possession of the enemy.

"Eastern theatre of war: Army group of Field Marshal von Hindenburg—Our troops again crossed the Illixt district and recaptured the Kasimirishiki farm.

"Army group of Prince Leopold of Bavaria—The Bavarian army, repulsed Russian attacks east of Baranovitch and south of Lake Vygonoskyoze.

"Army group of General Von Linsingen—Our troops took by storm enemy positions east of Kolki and west of Techartorusk. They repulsed the enemy's counter attack. We captured four officers and 1,450 men, together with 19 machine guns.

"Balkan theatre of war—German troops advanced further yesterday in their Balkan operations. They reached the heights of Suhagora-Ponas, east of Visegrad. South of Palinka they occupied the northern slopes of the Ratcha valley and farther east they captured Markovatch, Laope and Kutzevo. During the last three days 960 Serbians have been made prisoners."

HUNT ASSAILANT OF WAKEFIELD SCHOOL GIRL

Hazel D. Godfrey, fourteen-year-old daughter of George V. Godfrey of No. 262 Nahant street, Wakefield, reported to the Wakefield police today that late yesterday afternoon a man attacked her on her way home from school.

She said she was passing along an isolated stretch of Oak street when the man came up behind her and grabbed her. She fought and screamed. The man, baffled, ran into the woods.

Chief Pollard and Patrolman Preston scoured the woods for the assailant, but he had escaped.

British Steamer Abandoned at Sea

LONDON, Oct. 25.—A dispatch to Lloyds from Plymouth says the British steamer Donnaconna, 1,968 tons, was abandoned at sea on October 17 as the result of damage by storms. The crew was picked up by the British ship Ariel. Earlier reports said a German submarine sank the Donnaconna.

COFFEE CLAIMS ITS VICTIMS BY HUNDREDS

Business Notice.

Prominent Nerve Specialist Says Coffee Drinking Has Produced a New Disease—Chronic Caffeinism.

"There is a distinct type of cases, says Dr. Wm. M. Leszynsky, consulting neurologist to the Manhattan Eye and Ear Hospital, "frequent among the poorer class of people, but by no means confined to them, of functional nervous disorder caused by coffee drinking, to which the elastic term 'neurasthenia' or 'chronic caffeinism' in its broadest significance may be aptly applied.

"In cases of neurasthenia, inquire into coffee drinking," adds Dr. Otto Juettner. "I have seen hundreds of victims of this disease," continues Dr. Leszynsky, "among commercial travelers, brokers, merchants, actors, writers, and men connected with the news department of the daily papers.

"They usually complain of the following symptoms, which are more or less pronounced: General headache and nervousness, apprehension in regard to some unknown impending trouble, mental depression and irritability, insomnia or restless sleep, bad dreams and sudden starting in sleep, awakening in profuse perspiration, general tremulousness and diminished muscular power, cardiac palpitations, loss of appetite, and constipation."

NOTE—It is a fact worthy of note that the American food-drink—Instant Postum—has come widely into popular use and favor with the recognition of the harmfulness of coffee. Postum has a flavor resembling Old Java, but is entirely free from caffeine or any other harmful ingredient.

Reasons for Two Hods in Crawford Ranges

First Reason:—An Ash Hod is better than an Ash Pan; it catches all the ashes, it is easy to remove, it doesn't spill and the ashes can't bank up against the grates and warp them.

Second Reason:—The Coal Hod is out of the way and can't be used as a catch-all for garbage and all kinds of rubbish.

Then there is the Single Damper Control—worth the price of the range—and no other range has it. It's a marvel.

And a Wonderful Oven—with its perfectly even heat—which means perfect baking.

FEAR FOUL PLAY IN ABSENCE OF JOHN F. FINN

LAWRENCE, Oct. 26.—Mystery concerning the fate of John F. Finn, a well-known liquor dealer and former owner of the Lawrence (New England League) Baseball Club, who was thought to have been drowned, deepened today when blood spots were found on the lighted lantern which first caused his absence from his camp on Ivy Island to be noticed.

It is also said that when last seen Finn had a large sum of money with him, amounting to several hundred dollars, and was wearing $1,200 worth of diamonds.

The money and diamonds were not found when his camp was searched. As a result of these disclosures a double force of Lawrence and Methuen policemen are today dragging for the body under the direction of Inspectors John F. Kelliher and Michael Byron in the belief that Finn was murdered.

Investigation showed that the missing man was last seen where he ferried Stephen W. Dyer of Lowell street, Lawrence, from the island to the mainland Sunday night.

AN EASY WAY TO END CATARRH FOREVER

Simple Home Treatment Destroys Germs of This Dangerous Disease.

The reason why so many people who suffer from Catarrh never seem able to get rid of it is that they are continually seeking the momentary relief of sprays, douching, greasy creams, ointments, etc. Such things do open up the air passages to a certain extent, but they never reach the cause—the germs that are responsible for the disease. The air is always full of catarrh germs thrown off by one person and absorbed by another and when the system does fail to throw off such germs they find permanent lodgment in the nose, throat and head and multiply rapidly.

The germs of catarrh can best be destroyed by inhaling the pure medicated air of Hyomei (pronounced High-o-me). This splendid and powerful combination of oil of Eucalyptus with other healing agents has a wonderful germicidal action. You breathe the air into your nose, throat and lungs by means of a small hard rubber inhaler which Riker Jaynes Drug Stores and other leading druggists in this vicinity supply with every complete treatment. The medicated air is certain death to the germs of Catarrh and drives them completely out of your system and when the germs are destroyed the catarrh with all its disagreeable symptoms will stop. Even two or three minutes' use of Hyomei will relieve most distressing cases and you will see it is only a few times a day for a few weeks it will completely banish catarrh and every symptom of catarrh. As Hyomei is pleasant to breathe and is sold on money back guarantee by druggists everywhere with a positive guarantee of successful results or money back, surely no Catarrhal sufferer should go long before trying this simple home remedy.—Advertisement.

Dr. Cheever to Head Harvard Unit in Europe

Dr. David Cheever, Jr., of No. 20 Hereford street, has been chosen surgeon-in-chief of the section of the Harvard Surgical Unit which sails in a few days for service in a British war hospital, probably in France. Dr. Cheever succeeds Dr. E. H. Nichols, who went over in charge of the earlier section and has been working upon the organization of the next party.

Dr. Cheever graduated from Harvard Medical School in 1901 and became a leading surgeon at the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital. He is the son of Dr. David W. Cheever, formerly chief surgeon at the City Hospital and professor of surgery in the Harvard Medical School.

The unit is recruiting rapidly. Practically all the nurses have been enrolled—36 are to go in this party.

Urges Pastors to Stop Use of Apostles' Creed

The Rev. Dr. Woodman Bradbury, pastor of the Old Cambridge Baptist Church, told the eighty-sixth annual meeting of the conference of Baptist ministers in Massachusetts in the First Baptist Church today that the Apostles' creed must go. The ministers agreed that it ought to be dropped.

"We must leave out the Apostles' creed in our worship," claimed Dr. Bradbury. "It does not show a social aspect. If one looks into the history of this creed he will find it was born in an ecclesiastical atmosphere and that it has omitted the spirit of the Master.

"It does not speak of the kingdom of God. I would prefer the creed of St. Peter, who said to Christ, 'Thou are the Christ, the son of the Living God.'"

Ford Stockholders Divide $18,000,000

DETROIT, Oct. 26.—Distribution of a stock dividend of 600 per cent., equal to $18,000,000 at the present price of its securities, was recommended by stockholders of the Ford Motor Company of Canada, who met in Walkerville.

SHAW CHARGES MUZZLE PLOT ON PASTORS

William Shaw, the Prohibition candidate for Governor, declared today that Republican leaders, fearful of the fate of Samuel W. McCall, have attempted to "muzzle" the clergymen who have declared for Prohibition.

Mr. Shaw also declared that the Republican cry that a vote for Shaw is half a vote for Governor Walsh is "the last and weakest argument of a demagogue who confesses defeat and ignores the truth to excuse it."

Speaking at a noon rally in Lawrence today Candidate Shaw said:

"Republican leaders, through the medium of the leading newspaper representative of Samuel W. McCall, have been trying to muzzle the ministers of Massachusetts on this great moral, social and religious as well as political question. They imply that the Anti-Saloon League will alienate many of their supporters because, after exhausting every means to get Mr. McCall to make any declaration on the liquor question, the league unequivocably indorsed me and our issue.

"I am accused of being in alliance with the Democratic party and of trying to re-elect Governor Walsh. This is the last and weakest argument of a demagogue who confesses defeat and ignores the truth to excuse it. The Republican party was defeated when it substituted policy for principle and believed that the saloons of Massachusetts had more defenders than the home.

Mr. Shaw will speak tonight in the First Methodist Episcopal Church, Temple street, Boston, and before the Roxbury Citizens' Association in Highland Club Hall, Corey and Centre streets, West Roxbury.

Two Boys Sentenced For Football Theft

In Brighton court today Francis H. McCarron and Arthur B. Arnold, boys of 15, were sentenced to Concord, on charges of breaking into the Volkmann School clubhouse and stealing football togs and balls worth $50. They appealed. McCarron lives on Spring street, Cambridge, and Arnold in Medford.

Fined for Driving Auto While Drunk

George A. Murray of No. 15 Billings road, Quincy, was fined $25 in the Dorchester Court today on a charge of driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor, and $5 for being intoxicated. A charge of failing to have the rear light on his car illuminated was filed.

"I have been through a terrible ordeal, but I am a happy man today," declared Charlton. "I want to go back home to my father and begin life all over again."

"MY BABY GIRL IS A PICTURE OF HEALTH"

"Brought Up" on Father John's Medicine, which Cured Her of a Terrible Cough and Built Her Up.

"My little daughter is certainly a picture of health. She had a serious attack of lung trouble, with a terrible cough. After trying a doctor's medicine, which did very little good, we gave her Father John's Medicine, with the pleasing results that she was soon well, and we know that Father John's Medicine will keep her well." (Signed) G. O. Krogstad, Lanesboro, Minn.

Father John's Medicine is a safe medicine for children as well as older folks, because it contains no alcohol or dangerous drugs in any form, but strengthens and builds up the whole system because it is made of pure and wholesome nourishing ingredients.—Advertisement.

ANY WOMAN CAN SAVE $5 AN HOUR

Put gasoline and solvite in a wash boiler and dry clean everything.

Ever dry clean at home? Well, it's easy. Inexpensive and the results so pleasing you'll be surprised. Any woman can clean and renew the brightness of ribbons, silks, satins, laces, veils, shirt waists, kid gloves and shoes, furs, neckties, children's coats, capes, plushes, willow, organdy and chiffon dresses, fancy coats, veils, woolen garments, lace work, draperies, rugs, in fact, any and everything that would be spoiled by soap and water.

Get two ounces of solvite at any drug store and put it in two gallons of gasoline where it quickly dissolves. Then put in the goods to be cleaned, rub a little and out they come looking as bright and fresh as new. You will find nothing fades, shrinks or wrinkles, requiring no pressing.

Any woman can do five dollars worth of home dry cleaning in a few moments and you can't make a mistake. Your grocer or any garage will supply the gasoline and the drug store will sell you two ounces of solvite, which is simply a gasoline soap. Then a wash boiler or large dishpan completes your dry-cleaning outfit.—Advertisement.

Lime Medication in Tuberculosis

In the N. Y. Medical Record of December 5, 1914, Dr. John North, of Toledo, says: "I have come to the conclusion that one of the most prominent causes [of tubercle] is acid intoxication." In all cases of incipient tuberculosis there is a deficiency of calcium. Many do not eat food containing enough lime. * In such cases we must resort to lime medication."

Sodium Lactate should be given a fair trial in such cases, because one of its acids is calcium lactate, and in this acid combination with other remedial agents as to be easily assimilated by the average person.

Where its use is combined with proper diet, fresh air and hygienic living conditions, we believe it will prove beneficial in any case of tuberculosis.

It contains no opiates, narcotics or habit-forming drugs, as it is safe to be used by all Riker Drug Stores and leading druggists.

DOUBLE BILL AMUSES AT WILBUR

By FREDERICK JOHNS.

Granville Barker's productions of George Bernard Shaw's "Androcles and the Lion," and Anatole France's "The Man Who Married a Dumb Wife," which created quite a stir in New York last season, were given at the Wilbur Theatre last evening before a large, amused, and rather bewildered audience.

Barker is, by the way, a revolutionist in stage craft, and his setting of "The Dumb Wife" is ingenious, although too closely resembling "Suzanne" to be called novel. The production of Androcles is chiefly remarkable for the use of the pictorial or frame behind which the scenes are set, and Joseph Urban used a similar device continuously for two years at the Boston Opera.

The two plays are vastly entertaining. "The Man Who Married a Dumb Wife" is a tale that appears in Rabelais and earlier works, and it has been very strongly dramatized by Anatole France. The weird costumes of the middle ages ornament it greatly, and a superb company performs it.

MARY FORBES STARS.

O. P. Heggie, an English comedian with a quaint and delightful vein of drollery, plays both the husband in the France playlet and Androcles in the Bernard Shaw contrariety.

Mary Forbes has taken Lilah McCarthy's role of the Dumb Wife whose voice is restored, and who then talks so much that her husband has himself made deaf to escape her tongue. Miss Forbes has appeared in Boston in classic roles, and exhibits much dexterity and vocal fluidity in the part. She was not so happy as Lavinia, the Christian Martyr in "Androcles."

Lionel Braham, a gigantic man with a huge voice and rare talent as a humorous actor, plays a surgeon in the Dumb Wife, and Perrovius, the Christian Martyr with the bad temper, in the Shaw play.

"Androcles and the Lion" is described by Shaw as a "great religious drama, with leonine relief." Imagine, if you can, a play dealing with the period of the Christian persecutions, brimming with noble sentiments, having its melodramatic and even tragic moments and spattering them all with a musical comedy lion. Tragedy and burlesque won't mix any more than oil and water, and as a work of art this play isn't worthy of the least consideration.

COMPANY IS SUPERB.

But considered strictly as an entertainment it has very good points. Shaw treats the Christian martyrs from the Roman viewpoint, exactly as today we regard the Dowieites, the Sanfordites, the Holy Jumpers and other freak sects.

His characters use modern slang to express their thoughts. He even makes the Roman Centurian a Cockney. Yet despite all these Shawisms there are times when the great historic tragedy he is monkeying with gets away from him and becomes majestic.

The company, as I have said, is a superb one. The work of Edward Billward in the lion's skin deserves the highest praise. Claude Rains, Henry Herbert, Reginald Carrington and Charles Ainsworth were all worth of admiration.

Park Theatre.

Blanche King, the jolly musical comedy star, who calls Boston her home, received a home coming greeting that taxed the capacity of the Park Theatre when she appeared in the seven scenes of "The Runaway Girl." Nobody on the musical comedy stage can put the vim into a song that Miss Ring can, and her ability to enliven a part extends to her work in the films.

The story of the American girl who rolls through the preposterous Central American setting of the play seems more plausible on the screen than it does in person. The fact that one thing the scenery is such as never could be evolved on the stage, for it is nature's own. Then, too, the motion picture possibilities of revolutionary times are far greater than any stage manager hampered by the limitations of the regular stage could ever hope to live up to.

Miss King's powers are a source of profit to the feminine part of the audience which wants to see striking and effective creations. In the hands of the bill are excellent comedy, vivid portrayal of the world's woes, and a shorter films of romantic or dramatic interest.

Next week the famous pictures of Geraldine Farrar in "Carmen" will be shown at the Park Theatre's regular prices.

Modern Theatre.

The principal feature film at the Modern Theatre this week is "The Family Stain," in which Frederick Perry is the chief player. The fact that this is an adaptation of Emile Gaboriau's "Widow Lerouge," is an assurance that it has a thrilling, stirring story.

This famous French author, who was an early predecessor of Conan Doyle in the writing of detective fiction, was not only a weaver of intricate plots, but invested his stories with a Gallic romance, trebly enchanting the tales. He wrote none more intricate in plot than this story of the mysterious killing of the Widow Lerouge for which crime six persons are suspected, against all of whom at various stages of the action there appears very convincing evidence.

The tangled web only reveals more complexities in the unraveling, and how the sleuth finds the other of the four men and two women suspected is seen about to be convicted.

Boston Theatre.

Gail Kane and Bruce McRae, two popular Broadway stars, head the bill at the Boston Theatre the first half of this week. It is a five-part picturization of Frederic Thompson's greatest success, "Via Wireless." This production is founded upon the melodrama of the same written by Paul Armstrong and Wilbur Hall, and ranks as one of the most thrilling romantic dramas ever. There are a hundred different episodes filled with exciting moments, many of which were impossible to present in the stage version.

Another big feature is "The Woman in the Box," a thrilling two-act story of the United States secret service, with new mysteries and surprises every minute. Bobby Connolly, the celebrated "Sonny Jim," appears in a new play, "A Prince in Pinafore," and other strong features include "Patty's Fatal Fun," "Douglutsa" and several other pictorial features, including the Pathe News. Caroline B. Nichols and the Fadettes will continue their popular concerts twice daily.

Midnight Soiree.

On Thursday evening the Salon de Danse on Boylston avenue, will be the centre of great festivities, for the members of the "Follies" and "Follow Me" companies, with their friends, are going to unite in a soiree which promises to be the red-letter event during their engagement in Boston.

Miss Mae Murray, the charming little dancer of the "Follies," Miss Adele Rowland of "School Days Home," Quintin Todd, that wonderful bit of masculine agility, together with Marshall Hall of the Salon de Danse, head the committee in charge of the frolic. A limited number of invitations have been sent to the best amateur dancers. A wonderful Chinese supper has been arranged to be served at midnight.

Tremont Temple.

More than 20,000 persons saw the Chicago Tribune's sensationally vivid moving pictures of the European war, at the Tremont Temple this week, and judging by the attendance yesterday it is safe to say that the limited number of performances left to the engagement will be crowded to capacity.

Mr. Weigle, the Tribune's photographer, secured some wonderful films of actual fighting on the French, the Russian and the Italian firing lines, and the six reels of pictures shown at the Tremont Temple bring one closer in touch with the awful scenes of warfare than anything else that has yet been shown here.

Exeter Street Theatre.

Daniel Frohman presents Pauline Frederick in "Zaza" the first half of the week at the Exeter Street Theatre. Miss Frederick has unquestionably put her whole soul into this production. She shows a "Zaza" as intense in her hate as she is demonstrative in her love. "Zaza" dominates at all times and holds fair to prove a great screen success. The last half of the week Hazel Dawn will appear in a picturization of Henry Arthur Jones' famous dramatic success, "The Masqueraders."

CRAIG PLAYERS APPEAR IN 'COAT TAILS'

"Coat Tales," palcoed together by Edward Clark and told by the Craig Players at the Castle Square Theatre, is delightful everybody within hearing. The indications are that John Craig has made another "discovery," for this, it is said, is Mr. Clark's first play to achieve the honor of production.

The "coat" in the story is brought from Europe by Mrs. Florence Allen, the wife of an attorney. It has come to such that Mrs. Allen is afraid to wear "Bobby" much.

It is stolen by "Artie," Mrs. Allen's younger brother, and there begins with Mandelbaum, whose establishment is down stairs under the Turner & Allen offices.

Mandelbaum places the garment in his window. Alarm is attracted by attention of Florence Allen, the lawyer-husband.

Mr. Allan buys the coat, not to bring it home to Florence but, naughty man, to present it to the wife of Turner, his partner.

Mrs. Turner is afraid to accept so rich a gift, so Allan returns it to Mandelbaum, borrows a measly $10 on it, and gives the ticket to Mrs. Turner.

And so, for three acts, the imported coat keeps everybody in an uproar, up and down stairs and back again, until, finally, it is worn away for keeps by Miss Hazel Connors, the law office "stenog."

A merry farce, the premiere of "Coat Tales" was one laugh after another, like the explosions of a machine gun.

The piece is especially rich in the opportunities it offers to the women Players. Miss Mary Young, as "Mrs. Allan," Miss Justine Adams as the stenographer, and Miss Betty Barnicoat, as "Mrs. Turner," all scored heavily.

William P. Carleton was a capital "Cyrus Allan." Al Roberts was sufficiently crusty as "Mr. Turner." Theodore Friebus made a satisfactory pawnbroker, and Donald Meek was the younger brother of Mrs. Allan.

Next week Christmas shopping early, but select no heavier garment until you have first seen "Coat Tales" at the Castle Square.

Loew's St. James Theatre.

A splendid performance was witnessed at the St. James' Theatre yesterday. The feature photoplay was presented by Pauline Frederick in Lou-ie Carter's greatest success "Zaza." Miss Frederick enacted the role splendidly and was supported by an excellent cast. Among the wonderful features was Walter Percival and company. In a farce comedy sketch entitled "Come Across." A trio of singers was Goler, Harris and Morey, who delighted with their singing and musical offering. Frey Twins and Frey pleased with their physical culture specialty. Others were Marie and Trevette, in classical repertoire. The Leo Feist Singers appeared in their latest singing revue. Among the photoplays was "The Diamond from the Sky" and the latest Pathe News.

Scollay Square Olympia.

A very pleasing entertainment consisting of high-class vaudeville and photoplays was shown yesterday and packed houses at the Scollay Square Olympia Theatre. In the bill were Lewis and Mantell, in a whirlwind dancing offering; Fred and Eldria Fisher, in a beautiful singing offering; the dainty Canham Kidder and company, in a clever singing and talking offering; Mendell and Nevins, riotous knockabout comedians; Gordon and Marx, Tyrean comedians; "A Night in Tripoli," a splendid miniature comic opera with special scenery and effects and twelve people in the cast. The four-reel feature photoplay, "The Miracle of Life," featuring Margarita Fisher and Joseph Singleton, won a great hand.

HOW TO GET RID OF DANDRUFF

This Home Made Mixture Removes Dandruff and Stops the Hair From Falling Out.

The following simple recipe which can be mixed at home, or put up by any druggist, will quickly remove dandruff and stop the hair from falling out.

To a half pint of water add 1 oz. of bay rum, 1 small box of Barbo Compound, and ½ oz. of glycerin. These are all simple ingredients that you can buy from any druggist at very little cost, and mix them yourself. Apply to the scalp once a day for two weeks, then once every other week until the mixture is used. A half-pint should be enough to rid the hair of dandruff and kill the dandruff germs. It stops the hair from falling out, and relieves itching and scalp disease.

Although it is but a dye, it acts upon the hair roots and will darken faded, gray hair in ten or fifteen days. It promotes the growth of the hair and makes harsh hair soft and glossy.

CREATORE AIDS FILM SHOW AT HIPPODROME

The Boston Hippodrome, formerly the National Theatre, opened last night with Creatore and his band of fifty pieces as an ally of a big moving picture program. There was great enthusiasm from the audience which culminated in pandemonium when the Star Spangled Banner was played with a motion picture representing "The Spirit of '76."

A concert of forty minutes opened the bill at Boston's renovated playhouse. The magnificent band of Creatore played the overture to Rossini's "Barber of Seville," Massanet's "Minuet de Manon," and the prelude of Boone song waltz, soldiers' chorus and grand trio and finale of "Faust."

Ethel Barrymore made her first appearance as a film star in Boston in the five-reel melodrama by George Scarborough entitled "The Final Judgment." It was the story of an actress loved by a struggling artist, a multi-millionaire and a criminologist, abounding in intrigue, and it was enthusiastically applauded for Miss Barrymore.

The effects of moving pictures were never so greatly enhanced as they were by the accompaniment of Creatore's band last night. The tense and powerful scenes were especially well produced through the musical arrangement made by Creatore. Besides the Barrymore film, there was a Keystone comedy and a scenic picture on the bill.

Mme. Carwyn, who was formerly soloist at the Tremont Temple, was given a highly cordial reception. She rendered several operatic numbers and was in excellent voice. During the week Madame Carwyn will appear every afternoon and evening, changing her songs daily. Creatore and his musicians will also give a different concert each day.

Gaiety Theatre.

Dave Marion, alias "Snuffy the Cabman," opened a week's engagement yesterday at the Gaiety with a burlesque entitled "Around the World," a new medium that included brilliant scenes of many nationalities, rich songs, dances and picturesque costumes.

Mr. Marion himself has achieved a high degree of personal popularity with patrons of this house, and yesterday afternoon and last evening the theatre was packed to greet him on his annual sojourn here. Ably supporting him are Miss Irene Young, a talented young woman with a pleasing voice, and Al H. Weston, who assumes the role of her husband. Both do very creditable acting and were the recipients of much applause.

A feature of the entertainment was the Arion Quartet, and it is doubtful if a better quartet has ever been seen at this house. The melody and talent displayed are worthy of the concert stage. The large amount of scenery carried, the big variety of its shifting, the music and the work of the chorus are very strong factors in the production.

The mistaken identity of a young eloping couple on their honeymoon around the world is the cause of the comic situations that constitutes the humor and theme of the piece.

Waldron's Casino.

"The Spotting Widows" Company at Waldron's Casino this week presents a very lively show with burlesque and specialties of more than equal parts, and a clever lot of people to carry out the idea of a modern entertainment as viewed by Messrs. Jacobs and Jermon, progressive producers.

Johnny Lorenz and Eddie Fox are the chief comedians, and this precious pair of tramp impersonators keeps the laughs at top speed for nearly three hours. Others who scored hits were Daisy Mayfair, a petite comedienne; Annie Mack, vocalist and superb dresser; Anita, the dancing violinette, whose act is artistic of the highest degree; V. P. Dussy, tenor soloist; John Barry, character comedian; Ruth Lockwood in impersonations; Dubio Brothers, vocalists; the stately Frances King, the Barbary Coast dancers, the six English acrobatic dancers, and Bert and Harry Gordon.

Loew's Globe Theatre.

An all-star vaudeville show was witnessed the the Globe Theatre yesterday. The headline honors were given to the Berne Troupe, a group of European wrestlers, who presented a novelty in self defence. At last night's performance Wilhelm Berner defeated Kelturman, the Bavarian champion. The bout was very exciting throughout. Tonight Berner will wrestle Will Ivanhoff, the Russian champion, and tomorrow night his opponent will be Harnet, the Swiss champion. Other features were Soldier Men, American Comedy Four, Dorothy Herman, Brierre and King, two musical comedy stars, and John Scott, in a singing offering. Another feature was the Leo Feist Singers in their song revue.

Bispham as Beethoven.

David Bispham will give two performances only of "Adelaide," the Hugo Muller play in which he appears as Beethoven at Jordan Hall next Friday night and Saturday afternoon. Mr. Bispham will have the assistance of a capable company of singing players. Seats are on sale at Symphony Hall and the Columbia Phonograph Company.

SOMERVILLE LADY HAS BEEN CURED

Mrs. Jeanette MacCutcheon of 16 Clark St. Makes the Sensational Statement.

One of the most interesting statements made concerning that wonderful ensued preparation, Plant Juice, the new herbal remedy which is now being introduced in Boston at the Ligget Drug Company's store, corner of Washington and Avon Streets, is that of Mrs. Jeanette MacCutcheon, who resides at No. 16 Clark Street, Somerville, and is a well-known, esteemed woman of that city, where she has hosts of friends who will be glad to learn of her recovery to health. She stated:

"I have suffered with stomach trouble for years, and have had all kinds of indigestion and dyspepsia. My food would ferment in my stomach and cause gas, with a heavy, bloated condition and sour, disagreeable belching any solid food, had headaches, dizzy spells and was nervous all the time, could not sleep at night. In fact, I felt generally run-down and did not care what to do to find relief, as I had tried all kinds of treatments and medicines of head doctors, but did not receive any benefit, and did not think for me to find relief, as I finally decided to try it. I am glad I did, for now I am entirely free from all of your Plant Juice and it has made me feel like a new woman, and absolutely cured me. I can now eat any kind of food without distress, sleep well, have no more headaches or dizzy spells and can gladly recommend Plant Juice to any woman who suffers."

Plant Juice acts like magic in stomach trouble, gas, fermentation, heavy, distressed feeling after meals and constipation. It attacks and destroys all poisons in the blood, corrects diseased conditions of the liver and kidneys and restores them to normal condition.

The Plant Juice Man is at the Ligget Drug Co.'s store, corner of Washington and Avon Streets, where he is daily meeting the local public and introducing the merits of this remedy.—Advertisement.

Franklin Park Theatre.

Edmund Breese in "The Song of the Wage Slave," is the feature photo-play at The Franklin Park for the first three days of the week. This splendid masterpiece was a big success last evening and promises to draw capacity audiences to the Dorchester show house.

The four vaudeville features on the program are: The 21 Ray Sisters, in a lively roller skating and dancing novelty; Moore and Elliot in a side-splitting comedy sketch; Camille Parsoni and Co., in a Japanese singing oddity entitled "Butterfly Love," and Dave Kindler, whistling virtuoso.

LACKAYE HEADS STAR BILL AT KEITH'S

A tiptoptine bill—a real tiptopmost sort of a show—is that at Keith's Theatre this week.

From first to last it's brimming over with vaudeville's best — with never a dull moment—every second bright with life or tense with the brilliant acting of Wilton Lackaye, famous star of the "legit," and new headliner in a galaxy of talent. It's a bill—to tell it in a nutshell—it's a show that you can't afford to miss. It leaves nothing to be desired and more than satisfies.

Lackaye appears in "The Tomb," a dramalet of the East Side of New York. Replete with thrills, it's a first-class dramatic bit unrolls a gripping story with an end in a big surprise of a climax. Detective Lackaye — that's the role the great actor has, though you don't know until the curtain is about to drop—is disguised as a poor laborer, and how he gets the confession of the murderer in the story furnishes the meat of one of the finest one-act plays seen in some time.

Applause for Lackaye and his supporting company found an echo in hearty appreciation for other stars in other stellar acts. Gertrude Vanderbilt and George Moore, literally "brought down the house," and a mighty big audience it was, and thoroughly appreciative. The couple appeared in new singing and dancing novelties.

Side-splitting was the fun evoked in the tabloid comedy, "At Home," with Lulu McConnell, a splendid commedienne, and Grant Simpson, producing laughs galore. Not to be outdone there were George Evan's Seven Original Honey Boys, burnt cork and everything, funny as could be, good singing, too—a perfect minstrel treat.

Other big features in the bill were the Morin Sisters, good in a great variety of dances; Paul Porter and Alice Sullivan, making a hit in original character drawings and impressionistic songs and dances; Mario Fitzgibbon, drawing the laughs with a big batch of original stories; Lyon and Yeaco, "The Street Musicians," always welcome and never more heartily welcomed than last night, and the Helen Leach Wallin trio of young women who put across some new sensations in the acrobatic line. Not forgetting also the up-to-date "news movies."

All in all, the bill is one that you just can't afford to miss.

Plays That Remain in Boston Theatres

COLONIAL THEATRE.

Gorgeous scenes and costumes, gay songs and dances, a bewildering array of feminine loveliness and incessant merriment make the 1915 edition of the "Ziegfeld Follies," whose final week at the Colonial Theatre began last evening.

HOLLIS STREET THEATRE.

It was a positive farewell that was started at the Hollis Street Theatre last evening, when the fourth and last week of the engagement of "Nobody Home" opened at that house. When the transfer was made to this theatre many people supposed that an indefinite time lay open here, but that is not true, and the present week is positively the last of the Pinkerton engagement.

PARK SQUARE THEATRE.

It appears to be the commonest thing for "Twin Beds" at the Park Square Theatre to be starting another week, and equally ordinary for such an event to be marked with its usual crowded house.

TREMONT THEATRE.

"Nothing succeeds like success," remarks an adage of more or less ancient vintage. At the present time "On Trial" is busily engaged at the Tremont Theatre in proving the truth of the same. Having aroused New York to an unprecedented pitch of enthusiasm, Elmer L. Rice's famous play, during the past four weeks, has been making Boston theatregoers sit up and take notice.

MAJESTIC THEATRE.

The very last week of "The Birth of a Nation," completing the longest run ever known in Boston by over a hundred performances, began with the performances given yesterday afternoon and last evening at the Majestic Theatre before two packed houses.

Boston Opera House.

The beautiful and luxurious playhouse was opened last night for the first time by a regular dramatic attraction when "Experience," after eight weeks at the Shubert Theatre, moved in for another three weeks of its Boston run. The house was hospitably occupied, the department store benefit societies having taken the theatre for the evening. How "Experience" looks in its new setting will be told in Wednesday's AMERICAN.

DR. ELIOT WILL SUPPORT WALSH

Dr. Charles W. Eliot, president emeritus of Harvard University, will support Governor Walsh in the present campaign.

This brief but very important announcement was made by Dr. Eliot, himself, from his home in Cambridge.

The distinguished educator authorized the publication of this brief statement:

"President Eliot will support Governor Walsh."

While his decision to support Governor Walsh was announced without comment, Dr. Eliot is said strongly to approve the main features of Governor Walsh's administration.

Dr. Eliot is said also to be dissatisfied with the reactionary and unprogressive interests that have come into the control of the Republican party. In this respect his views are said to be identical with those of many distinguished Harvard professors, including Professor Albert Bushnell Hart, who holds the chair of American history, and Professor Lewis J. Johnson.

It is said that Dr. Eliot believes the success of the Republican party, under its present control in this State, would be the beginning of reaction in the country, because the control of the party has not changed since the great Progressive revolt in 1912 under Colonel Roosevelt, and the "Old Guard" are clinging to their old places on the theory that the Progressive movement among the people is only a temporary spasm that will soon pass away.

Dr. Eliot is said to hold the view that the good of the country requires that the Republican party be exorcised of its "stand-pat" leaders who almost extinguished it in 1912, by continued defeat until they let go their hold or are forced out by the rank and file of the party.

O'Shaughnessy to Speak.

The first of the Chamber of Commerce's "Assembly Luncheons" will be held November 4, when Nelson O'Shaughnessy, former Charge d'Affairs at Mexico City, will discuss "Our National Security."

Coming Events in Boston Theatres

COLONIAL THEATRE.

Seats went on sale today at the box office of the Colonial Theatre for the engagement of "Watch Your Step" which will open at that house next Monday.

HOLLIS STREET THEATRE.

Boston is sure to give a hearty greeting to Elsie Ferguson when she comes to the Hollis Street Theatre next week in "Outcast." She is one of the most popular actresses to appear at this house in the course of the season, and that fact was made manifest today when the sale of seats for her engagement opened.

MAJESTIC THEATRE.

The sale of seats for the big film production, the "Battle Cry of Peace," will commence at the box office of the Majestic on Thursday. About one reel of this Vitagraph masterpiece showing the bombardment of New York, was shown by the courtesy of Commodore Blackton at the mass meeting for preparedness, which was held at the Tremont Temple on last Friday night. That occasion will be the only time any portion of the film will be exhibited in this city, except at the Majestic Theatre.

To End Catarrhal Deafness and Head Noises.

If you have Catarrhal Deafness or head noises go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of Parmint (double strength), and add to it ½ pint of hot water and 4 ounces of granulated sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the nauseo stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Any one who has Catarrhal Deafness or head noises should give this prescription a trial.—Advertisement.

STRIKERS HIRE DETECTIVES AT NASHUA

NASHUA, N. H., Oct. 26.—Thomas F. McMahon, an organizer for the United Textile Workers of America, who with General Organizer Thomas J. Reagan is unionizing the strikers at the Nashua mills, said in outlining his work:

"One of the things we are doing is to bring here our own detectives to watch other detectives who come from the outside cities and stir up the strikers. I have seen men here whom I saw at Bridgeport, rousing trouble.

"We are peaceful. We tell the strikers they must respect the police and the militia; that these officers represent the law and are only doing their duty. We tell the strikers, by respecting them, you command their respect for yourselves.'

"We are perfectly willing to submit our case to arbitration. We want to be fair to both sides.

"But we maintain the mills are paying less here than in any other city in New England, or even north of Mason and Dixon's line. Even south of that line, men working in the mills are earning more money than the men here.

"I have found the worst conditions in my experience here. But I feel the trouble would have been adjusted before this had not the mill men counted on the poverty of the strikers, the hunger monster, to win their battle."

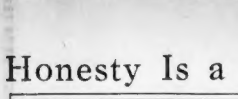
Honesty Is a Novelty That Ought to Make a Big Hit if Properly Introduced



BOSTON AMERICAN SPORTS

LEWIS-MANDOT BOUT SMACKS OF REAL THING

Tonight's windup number at the Atlas A. A. spells a lot in the fortunes of the two principals, Ted (Kid) Lewis, the speedy, scientific English lightweight, the pugdom game's newest sensation, and Joe Mandot, the willing New Orleans 135-pounder, clearly one of the best boys his pounds and inches allied with the Queensberry sport. It is a big show and deserves to attract a top-heavy house.

The sporting fraternity has installed Lewis quite a red-hot favorite in the speculation. Ted's two recent victories over Jack Britton, pulled with the Chicagoan coming in at practically the welterweight notch—the Londoner's win in the second combat was of the emphatic sort—have him standing high in the graces of Boston's big army of boxing lovers.

Lewis has batted at a 1,000 clip ever since he started operations on this side of the Atlantic. He has worked regularly, seldom less than twice a week, has gone on with as many 140-pounders and welters as lightweights, and Charley White, not to forget Britton, is among the U. S. topliners he has outhustled and outboxed.

LEWIS HAS TIED WELSH.

The bouncing Britisher gave Freddie Welsh all the champion wanted in a scrap over in London some twelve months or so ago. With him beating Mandot tonight, thus polishing off one of the best 135-pound stars in the land —with Wolgast a sorry old has-been, only Mandot, White, Ritchie, and Dundee, and possibly Young Saylor and Jeimmy Griffiths, deserve to be listed in Class A—Welsh must give Lewis an American date.

For that matter, mayhap T. Telegram Walsh will come in a winner with his starter, Mandot. The Southland King ranks in the very first flight among our premier lightweights. One of his recent performances was a win over Johnny Dundee, registered in Brooklyn, a Monteith bailiwick, and that is going some. Mandot is even a better boy this season that ever before in his career, and unless the unexpected happens with a vehement vengeance Lewis will have his hands full outpointing him in tonight's fracas.

Mandot must be afforded a chance; a big, unmistakable chance. Still, the pick of the talent looks to be the proper one, for, "doped" on his Boston form, Lewis the fastest and best bit of ringland timber in the ring right now. Were he the stripe of foeman who clucked it up when rushed into fight conditions, it would be all right enough to look to see him caught and outclassed some night and made to look bad. But whereas Ted is first and foremost the boxer, as skilled and as speedy a ringster sizing up his dukes since Abe Attell petered out, he also shines when rough mixing is in order.

MANDOT A TOPLINER.

Mandot is a clean, sharp hitter. He, too, is a tidy boxer, though scarcely as speedy as Lewis. Joe beat Young Saylor, who has shown to splendid advantage in his several bouts at the Atlas A. A. this season, when showing in Boston some twelve months ago. Tonight the Crescent City chap proved himself a topliner in the gamest every department. Likewise he met the best of them in his class of late months and not once has he suffered a surrender-set back. He beat Wolgast and Dundee, among some other good boys, and held his own with Freddie Welsh.

Manager Walsh is a charter member in the order of Wise Guys. He has joint offices with Nate Lewis, Charley White's sponsor, in Chicago, and probably made this trip to Boston with his charge, saving the chance on having a referee's verdict going against his entry, because assured by Lewis and Charley White that Lewis is the type of miller who could beat Ted in twelve rounds and, if putting it over, would be ridding the American ring of a bum-rat.

Lewis and White clashed in a ten-round combat in New York some three months ago. The bills of the Gotham dispensers named Lewis the victor. Still, White wasn't hurt or marked up. Likewise it goes without saying that both he and Skipper Lewis learned pretty nearly all there is to know about the Londoner's repertoire. Then, it stands to reason that they have told Walsh and Mandot how to fight, as well as how not to fight, Lewis, and Joe is probably imbued with the big idea that he is going to make Ted do a pile of missing footfalls and run up a wide enough shade to have Referee Powers allow him the big award.

POWERS AS REFEREE.

The boxing "fans" can be relied upon giving Phil Powers the deserved holy sendoff when he climbs into the ring. He has finally been appointed the club's official referee, and, unless he blows up, should be retained for all the windups.

The Atlas A. A. management should put the foot down hard on this old gag of out-of-town boxers coming along and demanding that Mike Stew or Bill Stall be brought on for referee work, simply because they hail from New York.

* * *

On paper tonight's prelims are a fair lot at best. But then prelims have always been peculiar things. Frequently the classiest of matches prove bogus, whereas now a punky will go in and box to beat the band. For the semi-windup number tonight Charley Carlen and Johnny Emery, two recent graduates of the amateur ranks, will square off. If they don't get stage fright they should put up a star bout.

In the two six-rounders it will be "Cy" Goodwin vs. Eddie Flynn, both Lowell boys, and Willie Ward, the scientific, and Harney Snyder vs. "Kid" Thomas. They, too, always mean well every time they show.

BREEZY BOXING BITS

ATLAS A. A. PROGRAM.

Ted (Kid) Lewis, England, vs. Joe Mandot, New Orleans; twelve rounds.

Harry Carlson vs. Johnny Emery; eight rounds.

"Cy" Goodwin vs. Eddie Flynn; six rounds.

Harney Snyder vs. "Kid" Thomas; six rounds.

TED LEWIS rules a 10-7 favorite to dispose of Joe Mandot in their game of fisticuffs at the Atlas A. A. tonight.

UNLESS Mandot objects, Lewis will pick up two more purses this week. He's carded to go on with the loudly touted Johnny Griffiths at Akron, O., Friday night and then hurry East for a scrap with Young Erne in Philadelphia Saturday night.

YOUNG ERNE was a good boy; a starry workman over the short route some seven and eight years ago. But he's well past thirty and most Boston "sports" thought he had retired

IS the Atlas A. A. banking upon switching Charley White-Young Saylor bout over to a later date? A week ago the announcement was issued that the two Western lightweights would square off next Tuesday night.

WITH Charley White meeting Matt Wells in Milwaukee Thursday night he seems to be taking a chance on his Boston engagement with Young Saylor five nights later.

BUT, maybe, White intends to can-cel, or ask for a new date.

BIG Broadway has installed Willie Ritchie the betting choice over Johnny Dundee in their ten-round fight tonight. Even with the ex-champion having a big pull in the weights, Dundee looms up as being no worse than an even money shot.

GREEN AND PENN CLASH NOV. 6 AT FENWAY

By HERMAN NICKERSON.

There may be more cheerless places than ball parks in the Fall and Winter time, but few have discovered them. In strange contrast to the quiet which prevails at Braves Field, now that it has been put into Winter quarters, the shutters up, and Acting Secretary Joe Quinn returned to New York is the activity at Fenway Park. This, however, has nothing to do with baseball. It is due to the pigskin game that Ground Tender Jeremiah Kelly and a corps of assistants are giving a correct imitation of gardners at work. They are getting ready for the Dartmouth-Pennsylvania game, which is scheduled for November 6, and this means that much sod must be placed in position.

While last year more of this expensive material was laid in place than Fenway Park, there is enough required for this year's game to cause some figuring when it is understood that the turf costs three cents a square foot, and there are many square feet in the base paths from home to first, second and third to be covered.

ALL SEATS RESERVED.

As the Dartmouth-Pennsylvania game is played upon a percentage basis, the Boston Athletic Association Company furnishes the grounds, the officials and the "scorers" have charge of the identity of the numbers, "Bill" O'Kane and his men have been at work stencilling the places where those who are expected to witness the game will sit.

The gridiron will be placed in a little different position than in the Fall of 1914. The goal posts furthest up town will be placed along the third base foul line, the eastern corner post fifteen feet from the home plate.

This will give the gridiron will extend down town along the right field section of the baseline toward right field, making the seats in the grandstand back of first base and beyond the scoreboard in the field pavilion the best in the grounds.

AN IDEAL GRIDIRON.

The work will be pressed so that with the proper amount of rolling of this new sod the field will be in as near ideal condition as is possible.

That the "fans" of Boston and New England are Dutfty and do not like their money lie idle for any length of time is made evident in the refund account of the Red Sox. Up to October 16 there was a sum totalling $63,488 to be paid back to holders of third game World's Series tickets. Yesterday $62,372 had been paid out, leaving a balance of only $6,116 after a little over two weeks' work.

The labor of Secretary Eddie Riley is somewhat laden with letters containing returned tickets demanding checks, be sent and so the merry work will continue indefinitely. The club intends to have all tickets redeemed at the Federal Trust Company and this company's clerks will continue to handle these tickets until the work is so near over as any distribution of funds in similar cases can be.

A DOWNTOWN OFFICE.

While the chill breezes have not started to blow in earnest as yet, Secretary Riley is looking forward to having the offices of the club moved down town to some office building. The club cannot return to those used last Winter, as these were sublet on the lease. The new offices will be selected in a day or so and all hands will move in soon after November 1.

Now that Tris Speaker is in the wilds of New Brunswick hunting, Harold Janvrin is the custodian of the world's champions in town, for Henriksen lives in Canada. "Chief Harold" is busy with his billiard parlor

Tad Jones' Brother Hero of Fall Games

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 26.—Clarence M. Jones, of Excelsis, O., brother of Howard and Tad Jones, old Yale boxers, starred first in the 100-yard dash at Yale's Fall track meet, Time—10 1-5 seconds.

James S. Roche, New Haven, won the quarter-mile dash in 50 3-5 seconds. Against a strong wind, it was the best performance of the day.

Harvard Regatta Tomorrow.

Fall rowing at Harvard ends this week for all but two crews, which are to be picked after the regatta, Saturday tomorrow, when the university and club crew races will be held. Theses two crews will be kept for the first few days next week, but Friday there will be some voluntary single sculling, when the weather permits.

Levinsky Trims 'Porky' Flynn.

PORTLAND, Me., Oct. 26.—"Battling" Levinsky of New York defeated Jack (Porky) Flynn of Boston in a hard-fought six-round battle. Levinsky had Flynn on the verge of a knockout in several rounds, but Flynn pluckily managed to keep on his pins. Levinsky has been matched to box "Wild Bert" Kenney here next Monday.

Cornell Runners Bent on Losing Harvard Squad

Norman W. Bingham of Boston has been chosen to referee the Harvard - Cornell cross - country run next Saturday. The Ithacans seek to defeat another Harvard team. They will arrive in Boston Friday morning.

Cornell has three of the finest cross-country runners in collegiate circles in Hoffmire, Potter and Wendnagle, and banks upon them to defeat Harvard. Coach Skrubb's best performance are F. Fallon, who ran second to Captain Brown of Tech in last Saturday's trial run, and Davison, who won the two-mile handicap race in the Stadium yesterday.

The race will start at 11 o'clock Saturday morning from the Harvard playgrounds at Belmont.

PAT MORAN MAY MANAGE PIRATES

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 26.—Pat Moran, who won the National League flag with the Phillies, is wanted by Owner Barney Dreyfuss to take Fred Clarke's position as manager of the Pirates. Moran signed a one-year contract when he took hold of the Philadelphia club last Winter. It expires this month, and, despite the fact that Pat presented Magnate Baker with a pennant winner, the Philadelphia president does not seem a bit anxious to give the New England a substantial salary boost for 1916.

Moran retired to his home at Pitchburg, Mass., without coming to terms; in fact, rumor has it that Pat was disgusted over the terms obtained in his new contract. Dreyfuss returned today and he would make his new coleftain no later than December 15.

Asked if he was banking upon getting Moran, Dreyfuss said:

"I understand that while Pat has not signed his 1916 contract, he is on the reserve list of the Philadelphia club. If that is so I don't see how I can get him even if I want him."

For all that it is common gossip around baseball circles that Dreyfuss is doing all in his power to get Moran from Philadelphia, and that Pat is his first pick to get on the job as Clarke's successor.

Ackerland Out to Peddle Cub Stock

CHICAGO, Oct. 26.—The Cubs will be sold during the Winter. That is considered official, despite the constant stand-pat attitude of President C. H. Thomas, who is generally rated none but a figure-head chief-tain.

Harry Ackerland of Pittsburgh, who bought Frank Chance's holdings in the Fall of 1912, paying $46,000 for stock, representing one-tenth of the block, has offered his holdings for sale.

B. C. High vs. Natick High.

Manager William Connolly of Boston College High has arranged a game with Natick High, at Natick, for tomorrow afternoon. Although appointed in losing the game with Malden Saturday, the James street boys are by no means discouraged, and coach McCabe promises that his team will capture all its remaining battles. He gave the squad a good workout yesterday afternoon.

Beecher Bests Jimmy Duffy.

NEW YORK, Oct. 1—Colored boxers displayed their pugilistic abilities at the Vanderbilt A. C. in the main event Mark Arnold of Brooklyn earned the honors over "Sailor" Burton, and in the other ten-round bout Jimmy Duffy outpointed Terry Martin.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 26.—At Shibe's Park Bobby Dobbs of Kansas City, Mo., defeated "Kid" O'Donnell of Gloucester at the Olympia, went on and gave that youth a decided lacing in their ten-round mix. Johnny Robbins of Brooklyn bested Andy Simmons of New Orleans in definite style.

GRENDA TO RIDE WITH HILL IN 6-DAY RACE

The first batch of entries for Boston's six-day race, which will be staged at the Arena the week of November 8, has just been announced. Here are the riders and the way they will team up: Reggie McNamara and Bob Spears, Australia; Freddie Hill, Watertown, and Alfred Grenda, Australia; Francisco Verri, Italy, and Harry Kaiser, New York.

With the exception of Verri and Kaiser every one of this squad has been seen on local tracks at one time or another. Verri, one of the European crack riders, was the sensation of New York's last six-day grind. Kaiser also gained his spurs in the big Gotham race last Winter and, while still a youngster, is a great plodder and she uld furnish the backing Verri will require.

Hill, paired with Goullet, was the winner of the 1914 race at the Arena. This year he draws another strong partner in Grange, the big Tasmanian woodchopper, who only recently broke the world's record for the half-mile, a mark which stood for eight years. McNamara was the runner up in last year's Boston race.

The six-day race will be ushered in by the usual set of sprint and paced events on Saturday night, November 6. The latter event, for the indoor championship of the world, will bring together George Wiley and Victor Linart, holder of the outdoor title. This promises to be one of the greatest paced contests ever held on an indoor track. It will be decided in heats, best two in three.

The remainder of the Saturday night program follows: One-half mile handicap, amateur; three-mile open, amateur; one-half mile handicap, professional, and ten-mile open, professional.

Amateurs desiring to compete in the open events should forward their entries immediately to either Alex McLean or Nat Butler at the Arena.

B. A. A. Seven Is Badly Shaken Up

The Boston A. A. hockey team is to see the services of two and possibly three of its stars pass from the ranks Chadwick, the sensational goalender for the past two seasons, has decided to pass up the game because of business, and Paul Soarr, enrolled in the Harvard Medical School, will not play because of undergoing a recent operation for appendicitis.

"Tessie" Hicks, who captained the team two years ago, is no longer a member of the association. He will probably associate himself with the Harvard Club team. Morgan B. Philips and "Bill" Claflin, Harvard stars last Winter, will affiliate themselves with the Exeter street boys, and another newcomer will be Art Donahue, the goal tender of last season's Dartmouth seven.

Ritchie Favorite Over Johnny Dundee

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—The best lightweight match in months will be staged in Madison Square Garden when Willie Ritchie, the former champion, and Johnny Dundee meet in a ten-round bout. Ritchie has been made first choice in circles where betting on fistic affairs is in speculate. The advantages of height, weight and reach, along with a heavier punch, give Ritchie the call, but he is up against the fastest 120-pound fighting machine in the game.

Dundee holds a four-round popular decision over Ritchie, and it is on account of that he can travel the ten-round distance and duplicate the trick. Ritchie will go into the ring weighing 133 pounds, while Dundee will not be over 131.

Brace Out for Brown.

PROVIDENCE, Oct. 26.—Fullback Brace is Brown's only warrior coming out of the Syracuse game in poor shape. He has had knee and ankle injuries in Camp. Consequently, he may not play for two or three weeks; in fact, the coaches fear that he may have to remain out of the Yale contest. Saxton will be at fullback in the Vermont game.

On Tennis Courts

R. C. RAND and R. Kennedy are the semi-finalists in Harvard's single championship tournament. They clash today.

S. M. STILLWAGEN fayed E. B. Benjamin in straight sets in yesterday's match in the semi-finals. The winner will meet R. Norris Williams 2d, for the title.

HARVARD'S doubles are still in their early stages. The second round has not yet been completed.

CROCKER defeated Hewitt in the fourth round of the preliminaries in Tufts annual Fall tournament. In the other match Captain Lane disposed of Estes.

MISS GERTRUDE MILLER was a winner over Miss Jane Davies in the semi-finals at Jackson College. Miss Miller and Miss Elizabeth Sargent meet for the title today.

WELSH'S HANDLER OUT WITH TERMS

Manager Harry Pollok writes that he was misquted in a couple of instances in his recent written statement on the attitude of Champion Freddie Welsh toward his lightweight challengers.

Pollok denies that he named White, Dundee, Ritchie and Mandot as the four leading contenders for the crown now worn by the native Briton. He allows that Welsh will defend his title four times the coming year, but that he will permit the boxing public, the fight writers and the promoters to pick the foes, as Freddie does not care in what order they come or who they are.

Pollok also says that Welsh is not insisting on a $15,000 guarantee for a championship fight over a distance.

Latonia Cup Race Tomorrow.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 26.—The Latonia Cup, two miles and a quarter, with $2,500 in added money, will be run off tomorrow. The event dates back to 1884.

IT is always interesting to me to learn what the ball players and umpires are doing through the off season. I note that Charley Nichols, the famous hurler for the Boston Nationals some time back, has gone into the moving picture business. He is a member of the selling force of a big concern. From 1890 to 1900 Nichols was the burling end of the famous Boston battery of Nichols and Bennett. His baseball career began with Omaha in 1888. For a while he was coach of the pitchers at Harvard. Afterward he was manager of the St. Louis (National League) club. He has been identified with various branches of Missouri sports for several years past.

* * *

QUITE a few ball players are turning their attention to football. Jim Thorpe, of course, is coaching the Indiana backfield. Derrill Pratt, second baseman of the St. Louis Browns, is assistant coach at Washington University. He is an stranger to football, as he once played half-back on the University of Alabama team and has also coached a number of Southern elevens. Derrill, I hear, may figure in an important trade that is soon to be made.

* * *

"ZIP" ZABELL, the Cub pitcher, is another football enthusiast. He has returned to Baldwin, Kan., and enrolled for his senior year at Baker University. Before going into professional baseball "Zip" won a big name for himself in football and basketball.

* * *

THE lure of the old home town has claimed Harry Coveleskie, the port-side pitcher of Hughey Jennings' Tigers. "Covie" bought a house in Detroit last Spring and said he was going to be a full-fledged fanatic. Now the baseball season is over, however, he has sold out his property and returned to Shamokin, his old home. He will go into business there. He used to run a pool parlor in the Pennsylvania city. "Covie" it seems, is going back to the miners, not to the minors.

* * *

BRICK OWENS, a former umpire in the American Association, has taken a job as floorwalker in a Kansas City, Mo., department store. It must seem funny to hear this fellow, who, they tell me, has the strongest pair of lungs ever owned by an umpire, saying "Step this way, please," in a gentle tone of voice.

* * *

OLLIE CHILL, son of Ben Johnson's arbitrators, takes up more violent work in the Winter months. He trains boxers. They tell me he used to be able to give a very good account of himself with the padded mitts, but from all I can hear he doesn't seem to be looking for any battles on the ball field.

ABERG WINS BIG MATCH FROM ZBYSZKO

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—Alexander Aberg, world's champion Graeco-Roman wrestler, successfully defended his title against Wladek Zbyszko at Madison Square Garden. The Polish champion was thrown by a side-roll and chancery hold in one hour and four minutes. The finish came so unexpectedly that few realized Zbyszko's danger until his great shoulders had been pinned down.

Ten seconds before Zbyszko's dream of the title vanished the Pole had the Russian champion in a most dangerous predicament.

HARVARD COACHES PUT SQUAD ON THE GRIDDLE

By SYDE LYNES.

Several weeks ago the Harvard players were put through a course of sprouts which pretty nearly exhausted the players, the strenuous way of the season. Beginning with the scrimmage in the Stadium today, it is expected that a new record for hard work will be set, and it will probably be one that should stand for some time to come, for it is not very often that Harvard has a defeat at the hands of Cornell to give the needed stimulus.

A wise old fellow once dropped that remark that "it was a long road that had no turning." By the same token Harvard had been having things too much its own way for a number of years, and it is about time that an upset should take place.

Many of the supporters of the Crimson feel now that they have become thoroughly reconciled to the humiliation of defeat at the hands of the Ithaca team, that it was far better to have such a catastrophe come when there was still time to mend things, than in the last big game with Yale, when there would be no repenting.

While there is to be plenty of scrimmaging, according to official statements, the rejuvenation of the Harvard eleven will be aided by a course in the rudiments of the game, which is plainly apparent is badly needed. Obviously the varsity candidates did not get enough of this sort of things at the start of the season. As a matter of fact no team can get too much elementary drilling, and, as the Cornell game has brought about this reversion, it strengthens the truth of the old adage that it's an ill wind which blows nobody good.

CRIPPLES COMING BACK.

With both Enwright and McKinlock, the two most promising contenders for backfield positions, next to King and Mahan, back in laboring clothes, the chances for a more rapid development of the attack brighten.

The announcement, coming as it does in an official way, that Gilman's injury is simply a strain, as announced in the Sunday AMERICAN, and will keep him out not more than ten days, is an added bit of good news. Spurred on by the return of cripples to the ranks of the fit, and the sting of defeat, Harvard should show some real and permanent improvement by the time Penn State appears at the Stadium next Saturday.

Neither King nor Wallace, both of whom sustained slight injuries in the Cornell game, will be kept out for any length of time. It is to be hoped that when they do get back they will stay in permanently. The Crimson is in for too precarious a position to survive many incapacitations to its leading candidates.

The major part of the team did not show up for first five days' practice. Instead, Coach Haughton gave most of the regulars a rest. It is not very often that Harvard has to keep its best team on the field right up to the finish, as was the case against Cornell, and, as a result, the men needed a layoff. But they will pay for every bit of leisure they had by some stiff scrapping today.

COWEN REQUIRES WORK.

The only men who played in the game against Cornell who appeared in their togs yesterday were Oser, Watson, Parson, Cowen and Whitney. Cowen is a big, husky chap, who can stand any amount of work. Not alone that, but he needs every bit of labor he can get. At the present, Cowen is not playing the game which he is capable, and he can still take a lot of training before he comes to his best physical condition.

Parson also needs a lot of work to get into thorough trim. He was laid up for some time early in the season and only recently returned to the squad. He is also a man who can stand a lot of work, even though owning a different type of physique than Cowen. His is more the rawbone, enduring kind, which simply gets tougher by work.

There was a track meet going on in the Stadium, as the varsity could not reign supreme. O Tempora! O Morse! in the words of that famous Roman exponent of graft and vice, to think that the Harvard eleven should be ousted from its sacred stamping ground by mere runners! However, it was ousted and forced to take refuge in the baseball cage, safe from the prying eyes of whatever members of the common herd happened to be prowling about Soldiers Field.

A BIG POW-WOW HELD.

Just prior to the caging of the squad, a big pow-wow was held in the upper room of the Locker building. There was a blackboard talk by the leading coaching lights. There was also another brand of talk, and, it is understood, that it was not of the gentle, cooing type; in fact, the men were shown just where they got off and what they must do to get aboard again. The obsequies being over, the crowd adjourned to the more festive occasion in the cage.

Here the coaches endeavored to explain by the Montessori method the mistakes made in the Cornell game. As there was to be no night session, some of the minor things had to be omitted. The men were shown where they should have been, and what they should have been doing, on certain plays which occurred last Saturday. Such actual demonstrations are of the greatest value, particularly when the men know by experience what not to do the next time and why they should not repeat old mistakes.

ROBINSON TRIED AT QUARTER.

Robinson, the freshman halfback last season, had a shot at quarter in the drill. Up to a week or so ago he had been a candidate for the backfield, but owing to the lack of first-class material for quarters, he was shifted over. He is fast and handles the ball well. Whether Robinson is sufficiently sound in judgment to enable him to safely guide a team through the critical situations, certain to arise in every game from now on, is another matter, and can only be determined by giving him his chance in a big game.

Both Enwright and McKinlock, as has been stated, got into the practice. They moved about with their usual speed and seemed to be in first class condition. It is doubtful, however, whether they will be given an opportunity to enter the Penn State game Saturday.

CLAIMS TIGERS HAD AFFIDAVITS

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 26.—It was stated today by a man in a position to know the facts concerning the disqualification of Harry Le Gore and other Yale athletes, that a representative of Princeton visited Professor Corwin, in charge of athletics at Yale, just before the announcement of the ineligibility of LeGore and his associates was made public.

Although the visiting Princeton man at first did not broach the reason for his trip to Yale, it is stated that Professor Corwin, surmising his purpose, forestalled him by stating that he had conducted an investigation into an incident at Quogue, L. I., in which Yale athletes were involved, and that as a result the athletic committee had decided to declare these men ineligible.

At this juncture it is stated that the Princeton man said: "That relieves me, Professor Corwin, of a very unpleasant duty."

Whereupon he drew from his pocket affidavits that had been prepared showing that the Yale men had broken the eligibility rules.

Another story that has found credence with the undergraduates is that the affair was a "frame-up" in order to get these desirable players out of the game and put Yale into the hole. This story is to the effect that the men declared ineligible were the guests of a Princeton graduate while they were playing baseball at Quogue.

'Barnstorming' Ball Tour May Be Banned

CHICAGO, Oct. 26.—The National Association of Minor Leagues, at its meeting in San Francisco, Nov. 5, will be asked to act on legislation designed to do away with some of the evils of "barnstorming," President Chivington, of the American Association, said today.

Some players from Chivington's league took part in an exhibition game at Indianapolis the other day, which reports said would end up in a riot among spectators, players and umpires.

Loses Memory After Scoring Touchdown

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Oct. 26.—When Graves Williams, Penn's brilliant halfback, pursued newspapers last Sunday morning, he discovered that he had made the lone touchdown scored by the red and blue in the heroic battle against Coach Glenn Warner's powerful Pittsburgh eleven on Saturday. It was all news to this blond-haired athlete, for he fought his fight on the chalk-lined green of Franklin Field without knowing what he was doing, for his memory had left him.

Yesterday in the Pennsylvania dressing room he admitted that he had absolutely no knowledge of what transpired after his injury.

Wholesale Changes at Tufts.

Ted Sanborn has taken Duane's place at fullback on Tufts varsity, the latter injured in Saturday's game with Boston College, probably being out for the season. Tackle Beacham has also been brought behind the line, going in at left halfback. Jochim and Bentley, of the seconds, are the new end and tackle, respectively, on the varsity. Tufts plays the Amherst Aggies Saturday.

Jim McCormick at Exeter.

EXETER, N. H., Oct. 26.—Jim McCormick, Exeter's old fullback and a former Princeton hero, looked over the Exeter men in action yesterday and the coaches hope he will decide to spend at least a week in town. McCormick helped out "Ted" Jones two years ago when Exeter enjoyed its biggest season on record. A 16-yard run by Hewatt for a touchdown featured the day's scrimmaging.

Everett-Waltham Game On.

The Everett High-Waltham High battle is as good as set for Saturday, November 27, it was announced at both schools today.

Moore a Fixture at Right Wing on Rush Eleven

PRINCETON, Oct. 26.—While the practice was extremely light, it was easily seen that already preparations have been started for the Harvard game. The old field was used for the first part of the drill and for about half an hour the regulars were kept busy on new forward passes. McLean and Kaufman were excused from scrimmage, and Halsey did not report until late in the afternoon.

"Bill" Moore, who played for the first time at end last Saturday, created a favorable impression and will probably remain in that position. He was taken over by "Ham" Andrews for some individual instruction and should be a powerful factor in Princeton's open game. Moore's ability to catch passes and his speed make him dangerous on the right end.

When the squad moved down to the stadium late in the afternoon Rush deserted the varsity and devoted his whole time to the scrimmage between the second team and the scrub. Lamberton and Thomas have returned to the game, and, together with "Russ" Law, furnished the real lights of the afternoon.

Lamberton made long gains through the line and Thomas, playing at halfback for the first time, did remarkably well. He has been a substitute end all Fall and, while it is too late in the season to develop him into a regular backfield man, he may make a good substitute for the final games.

Boston College Out to Shine in H. Cross Battle

With the biggest game of the season, that with Holy Cross, only a few days away, and organizing under the defeat administered by Tufts, the Boston College squad started in the stiffest week of practice it will have this Fall. Saturday's game showed a lot of weak spots and Coaches Mahoney and Prendergast will do their best to overcome the weaknesses.

The line, which showed up well in the games with Bowdoin and Maine, was very weak in spots. Nearly all of Tufts' gains were made through the centre quarter. The backfield, weakened by the loss of Toury, needs a lot of coaching, and Mahoney promises he will have his team in shape for Saturday's contest if he has to use a whitewashed ball every night.

Boston College is not worried much about Holy Cross' attack, as it is claimed to be nearly all confined to forward passing, at which B. C. is par excellent at breaking up. The work of Captain Duffy in carrying the ball, and the punting of Brady, were the features against Tufts.

Minot Piloting Battery A.

Wayland M. ("Dono") Minot, Harvard's former star fullback, has been elected captain of the Battery A eleven and will lead his forces against the First Corps Cadets in the Stadium Thanksgiving morning. Minot has called a conference of all football players in the Battery for Thursday night. The Battery eleven lost to the Cadets last Fall for the first time in several years.

OTIS GUERNSEY BACK WITH ELIS

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 26.—Yale took a fresh start in football today and chose a road which the supporters of the Blue are hopeful will take the eleven past the games with Colgate and Brown without a mishap. When these games are disposed of there will be sufficient time to take care of Princeton and Harvard.

There was no great stir today, no radical changes in the coaching policy and there will be none, according to reliable sources. Every player settled down to real work. Johnny Kilpatrick, the great Yale end, and Johnny Field, the star quarterback of years gone by, were on hand to help the resident coaching staff.

This will be a week of light work, but one full of mental drill for the players, the coaches said. Last week hard work was tried and it did not prove particularly successful. This week there will be more theory and just enough practice to keep the players on edge.

The coaches yesterday went back to fundamentals. Kilpatrick taught the ends how to get down the field under punts, while Dr. William T. Bull, coach of the kickers, schooled the players in punting and drop kicking.

Funds Sought for Band for Harvard

Harvard undergraduates started on a hunt after $500 today in order to hire a band for the remaining football games, including the Tiger battle at Princeton. Members of the sophomore and freshman classes are canvassing the different dormitories. The general committee includes: Wells Blanchard, football manager; "Heinie" Nash, baseball captain; Dave Morgan, crew captain; Johnny Morgan, hockey captain; R. Norris Williams, 2d, intercollegiate tennis champion, and "Billy" Murray and "Dick" Harte, both varsity footballers.

GREEN STUDENTS GOING AS SWINE

HANOVER, N. H., Oct. 26.—The Dartmouth squad, somewhat bruised and mighty sore as a result of Saturday's hard game in Princeton, took it easy yesterday, but will resume its scrimmaging this afternoon so as to be ready for the Amherst battle Saturday. The Purple always puts up its best game of the season against Dartmouth and the Green is out to run up the biggest score possible.

Dartmouth's undergraduates claim they have the Interstate Commission by the beaten to a frazzle. While they will travel to Amherst Saturday as cattle they will go as pigs, they claim, for being allowed to get the cattle car rate.

Whether the commission will allow them to get away with it remains to be seen. Locally the railroad people say that the students will make the trip in passenger coaches, or not go at all.

Taking a Mental Inventory

What Have You Done to Improve Yourself in the Summer Just Past?

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox

Copyright, 1913, Star Company

NOW that the Summer season is ended and you are at home again, suppose you make a mental inventory of the past four months and see what you have accomplished with yourself and life.

What did you do with your Summer vacation? Did you add to your store of knowledge in any way? Did you lay a foundation for better health, better work, greater usefulness and greater happiness?

Did you read anything of value and did you think any worth while thoughts? Did you leave the people with whom you associated happier, more hopeful and more ambitious to emulate your example, and did you add, in any way, to their respect for human nature by the examples you set them?

There are people who feel that they are taking a vacation when they eat and drink to excess and pass all their leisure moments in gossip and criticism. Nothing could be more depressing to one who has the interests of humanity at heart than to listen to the conversation of bevies of smartly dressed men and women on hotel verandas in the Summer season. Idle gossip, malicious criticism, trivial chatter prevail, as a rule, in such places.

Many a young woman's character has been torn to pieces and many an ugly, untruthful scandal has been set afloat by men and women at Summer resorts who believe themselves to be good Christians, and who return home to be faithful attendants at some established church of Christ. There are so many interesting subjects of conversation to occupy our minds outside of the faults, failings and foibles of our fellow-sojourners.

Before you go away on your Summer vacation next year it might be well to plan out a little course of procedure, and to make a few resolutions. First of all, resolve that you will not enter into any conversation which lowers the moral tone of those who participate or who listen, and that you will indulge in no criticism of anyone who is absent.

Then resolve that you will use what tact and skill you possess to changing the tenor of such conversation when you find yourself in a company of people intent upon gossip. It is not a difficult matter to lead idle minds away from individual themes to one of universal interest.

A host in a private home, who had grown tired of the rather aimless talk of his family and guests at table, suggested that each member bring an item of scientific or historical interest to embellish the dinner hour. This suggestion was carried out and proved to be a feature of great pleasure and profit to all concerned.

Each member of the household did a little careful reading through the day in the library and was enabled to introduce a topic of general interest during the repast. Their minds were enriched, memories strengthened and knowledge increased.

If one's happiness is gained mainly from a discussion of the weaknesses of human nature this tendency can be indulged by reading history and scoring the deredictions of people who have passed from earth. It is much safer and less liable to provoke unpleasant results than giving this proclivity rein with one's personal acquaintances as the subjects under discussion.

To build up one's health by breathing fresh air and eating pure food is not the only object to be sought in a Summer vacation.

To avoid bad company, cheap habits of conduct, unwholesome and unworthy topics of conversation is quite as important as to avoid bad air in city offices. There are scores of women who have returned home from Summer hotels declaring they have had a most glorious season, yet who have left behind them a trail of idle gossip and meaningless chatter; women who have done nothing to increase the respect for womankind, nothing which has cheered, helped, encouraged or strengthened any human being who came within their radius. Are you one of these?

The Joy of Being Yourself

The Reward Is a Satisfaction Not Only to Yourself, But to Others

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

"THE greatest joy I ever knew," said a very fine girl to me, "was that I felt on the day when I saw my first poem in print. I looked at it and knew it was good, and I had a glorious feeling that I myself, through use of my own powers, had written this verse and that it might have a message for the rest of the world, and must have for myself the message that I could go ahead and make something of my life. Besides, it represented ten dollars earned."

And my friend laughed so sanely that I knew she was neither an impractical visionary nor yet a self-sufficient creature to antagonize with her own work that she had with her own work about her. She would ignore the world about her.

"I suppose I'll be happier some day if ever I hold my own child in my arms, but if that blessing is denied me, at least I shall make something of my life," concluded the girl, quietly and reverently.

It seems to me that her little creation holds a wonderful philosophy for all women in it. It speaks the joy you bring an active part of the life about you, of working and of doing your best, and of giving what you feel you have in you to give, and of trying ever to give more, of finding joy in accomplishment. "To look on your work and know it is good" is probably the most blessed thing in life.

Expressing yourself in a wonderful privilege that makes part of the freedom and real liberty of life today. But expressing yourself must never be a thing that interferes with the self-expression of others, nor yet an insane thing of unchecked emotionalism that might influence others to express themselves wrongly.

The joy of being yourself is yours to take if you can do it cleanly, sanely and finely and with a certain conformity to the large splendor of life. It means working for humanity or giving a message to humanity; it means service and striving to aid growth. It means achievement—but never achievement which asks from others a weary toil.

The joy of being yourself has a tremendous force for uplift in it. Instead of finding force for you, inhibiting your ability to express yourself (be it through the most ordinary manual labor or the most wonderful artistic effort) is an unhappiness and a suffering that had to eat into your soul.

If you have to express yourself by bringing up your children beautifully, by making your home artistic, by helping humans in distress—in any of these splendid ways—you can be a fine force for humanity and its growth.

If you have to express yourself by baking apple pies or trimming hats, don't resent the form you give to expression has taken. But work it out with all the power for beauty that lies within you. If modelling in clay, singing a song or painting a picture is your form of expression, then let your artistic nature work itself out in full measure of loveliness.

Never, never, as you value your individuality or happiness, try to make yourself colorless or negative. If you are born to splendor and prefer taking settlement classes to attending afternoon teas, let society laugh at you, but don't let it deny you the joy of expressing yourself.

If you wish to be a millionaire's son and want to work out chemical problems, don't let him or anyone else in the world keep you from donning overalls.

And if you are a little shop girl who prefers poverty and poverty and prefer taking settlement classes to attending afternoon teas, let society laugh at you, but don't let it deny you the joy of expressing yourself.

If you wish to be a millionaire's son and want to work out chemical problems, don't let him or anyone else in the world keep you from donning overalls.

And if you are a little shop girl who prefers poverty and prefer Masterpiece to going out, just let your comrades call you a goody-goody. That can never hurt you as it would hurt you to deny your better nature, its chance of expression.

Whatever your vocation, wherever your path may lead, be sincere in what you may feel called to something fine and bigger. Don't stifle those splendid yearnings. Don't stifle them. In being your true self lies your chance for place in life.

HOW TO REDUCE YOUR WEIGHT

A SIMPLE, SAFE AND RELIABLE WAY.

People who are over-burdened with superfluous flesh suffer not only the well the discomfort and ridicule that over-stout people have to bear.

If you are carrying around five or ten pounds of unhealthy fat you are unnecessarily weakening your vital organs and are carrying a burden which destroys the beauty of your figure.

There is no need of anyone suffering from superfluous fat. If you want to reduce surplus weight in a simple, safe and reliable way, without starvation diet or tiresome exercise, mend as much time as you can spare from your meals to the following and get from any good druggist a box of Oil of Korein Capsules. Take one after each meal and one before retiring at night.

Weigh yourself once a week so as to know just how fast you are losing weight and don't leave off the treatment or even take a single dose until you are down to normal.

Oil of Korein is absolutely harmless, is pleasant to take, helps digestion and is designed to consume the excessive fatty tissues by increasing the oxygen-carrying power of the blood. From a few days' treatment should show a noticeable reduction in weight, freedom become lighter, your work seem easier and a better and more hopeful feeling take possession of your whole being.

Every person who suffers from superfluous fat should give this treatment a fair trial. Others to avoiding better.

Under Suspicion

Several members of a woman's club were chatting with a little daughter of their hostess.

Mining Before History

In the Neolithic Age Men Delved Deep in the Earth in in Search of Flint for Tools and Weapons

By GARRETT P. SERVISS

IF proof were needed that mining is one of the oldest arts known in the world it would be abundantly furnished by the prehistoric flint mine near Spiennes, in Belgium.

It was worked by men of the Neolithic, or Later Stone Age, who lived in Europe unnumbered centuries ago, at a time when the principal material for the making of tools and weapons was flint.

Flint, to the men of that time, was as valuable as iron is to us. But in furnishing them with a material indispensable to their arts and industry nature was kinder to them than she is to us, because we can get only the ores of iron, which we have to reduce in order to obtain the workable metal, while the flint used by our remote predecessors required no preliminary operations, but could be utilized as soon as it was got out of the ground.

A PERFECT ART

In the Neolithic Age the art of chipping and shaping flint and other hard stone into the forms of weapons, tools, utensils and ornaments had been gradually brought to a high degree of perfection. Some of the objects made of stone were beautifully polished, and nearly all were finished with exquisite care and skill. For many thousands of years before the Neolithic Age man had been practicing this art and it is now possible for us to trace its slow development through a series of historic, or rather prehistoric, epochs, such as the Chellian, the Acheliun, the Mousterian, the Aurignacian, the Solutrean, the Magdalenean and the Azilian, which, all together, cover it may be a hundred thousand or even two hundred thousand years, during which man was mastering the simplest of all arts, that of shaping stones for his use.

The earliest forms of flint implements and weapons are astonishingly crude, not better than could be made by merely knocking two stones together, and the simple fact that it took hundred of centuries for man to improve this process enough to produce the well-shaped and finished articles used by the Neolithic people shows how low was the level of intelligence from which he began.

The earth was as rich in useful substances, and nature was as full of utilizable forces then as they have ever been, but man knew almost nothing about them. The undeveloped genius which was destined to evolve the cities, railroads, steamships, telegraphs, electric light and heat, and all the mechanical wonders of our time, fumbled for tens of thousands of years with flint implements.

A GREAT WORK

The Belgian mine was one of the greatest works of that genius, after it had been laboring for many ages, ignorant of all the greater riches of the earth, it sought only the nodules of flint imbedded in the layers of chalk. Yet the unawakened power of man's genius, the blind force that slept in it, is plainly shown. It was not brute instinct; it was reason and dawning science which led those ancient miners to give their subterranean galleries the same forms and the same means of support and of security which mark the great mines of today. They left strong pillars of chalk at stated intervals to sustain the roof, and they drove their galleries with intelligent skill in such a way as to enable them to obtain the greatest possible quantity of flint without weakening the supports of the mine. In the mine there are to be seen many dark flint nodules in the chalk overhead that have been left untouched. The miners descended into these galleries by means of shafts as much as forty feet in depth. There are hundreds of these shafts in the neighborhood, and in the time of their makers this was probably an notable a centre of human industry as Pittsburgh is today, for the remains on the ground above show that the flints taken from the mines were, at least to a considerable extent, worked up on the spot.

When You Lose Temper

You Put an Extra Burden on Your Heart

ACCORDING to Dr. Joseph Strickland Goodall, the celebrated English cardiologist, losing your temper puts a big burden on your heart. He illustrates the enormous power of the heart in a striking way:

Take a two-pound weight in the palm of the hand, resting the elbow on a table, and raise and lower it from the level of the elbow to the shoulder. This is exactly the work done by the heart at each beat. Do this about seventy or eighty times a minute, and see how long you can keep it up. The heart keeps it up from before birth to just after death, perhaps seventy years. It never takes a rest; it never sleeps.

The heart has been known to break from the strain of sudden emotion. Anger will increase the work of the heart from 153 to 224 foot-pounds a minute. Therefore, "Keep your temper," is good physiological advice.

Dr. Goodall tested the heart of a healthy man before he ran to catch a train. It was beating seventy-six to the minute and doing 152 foot-pounds of work a minute. He tested it immediately after the run; it was beating 120 to the minute and doing 2340 foot-pounds of work a minute.

How to Treat Eczema

A chemist who was convinced that the old method of taking internal medicines for skin troubles was wrong, discovered that an extract from the tree Juniperus Oxycedrus was good for the skin. This important vegetable extract, by a method of special treatment with other healing ingredients, forms the product known as Cadum ointment. Since its introduction, it has cured many cases of eczema and other unsightly, irritating and distressing skin diseases after other remedies had failed. Cadum stops the terrific itching of eczema at once, and begins healing the first time it is applied. It is also good for pimples, blotches, hives, tetter, itch, acne, herpes, scaly skin, psoriasis, ringworm, rash, sores, chafings, eruptions, itching piles, scurvy, scabs, etc. Many of the results obtained by the use of Cadum may be truly called wonderful. 1oc. and 25c. a box.—Advertisement.

Their Married Life

Helen Spends a Terrible Evening When Warren Is Mysteriously Absent

Copyright, 1913, by International News Service.

HELEN woke up suddenly and then sat up and looked around. She wondered what time it was. Evidently Warren had not come in, which was strange, as the lodge seldom kept him very late. She switched on the lights and the little clock on her dressing table said twelve thirty. She had been asleep two hours. What could have happened to Warren? And then she smiled at her foolish fears. Warren would be in any minute now and would laugh and tell her he didn't need a nurse. Well, she would wait up for a time, she simply could not sleep.

Selecting a book she settled herself in one of the chairs in the living room, but it got too cold and she went back to bed and turned on the light by her bed. She felt suddenly very wide awake and almost at the same time had a premonition that all was not right with Warren.

The time slowly ticked away. One o'clock, half past one, two. Helen jumped from the bed finally, she simply could not bear the suspense any longer. Going to the telephone she rang up and gave Bob's number. Bob would know if Warren had left the lodge and if Bob hadn't returned yet, she would not worry any longer.

"They don't answer," said central in a sleepy voice.

"Try them again, please," said Helen, "someone must be there."

After another wait, the line buzzed and Bob's voice offered a sleepy cross "Hello."

"Hello, Bob, this is Helen."

"Helen? Why, what's wrong? Anyone sick?"

"No, Bob, but Warren isn't home. Did he leave the lodge with you?"

There was a moment's silence.

"Hello, hello," said Helen frantically, afraid that Bob had rung off.

"Hello," said Bob, aaaasuringly. "I'm still here Helen. Why, Warren didn't come to the lodge tonight."

BOB ASSURES HELEN HE'LL COME RIGHT OVER

There was a silence and Helen turned white. Her first thought was of danger to Warren, her second was anger that he had deceived her.

"Where can he be?" she whispered hoarsely.

"Now, don't worry, Helen," said Bob reassuringly. "I'm going to dress and come right over."

Helen protested weakly, but the thought of seeing and talking to Bob was too much of a temptation and she hung up a moment later secure in the knowledge that Bob would do something to help her. A thousand things kept flying through her head. Suppose Warren had been hurt. Suppose even now he happened to be lying in some terrible place robbed and injured. The thought made her throw her frantic and to keep herself busy she began to tone her hair up on her head in a more tidy manner and threw a blue silk dressing gown around her.

Then she put coffee into the percolator; it would be nice to have something hot for Bob when he came. She closed the door carefully after taking a peep at Winifred and then the door leading into the kitchen so that Mary would not wake up. Helen had a dread of the gossip of servants, not that she had anything to conceal, but there was no telling what had happened.

She carried cream in from the icebox and the bell gave a pant at that moment that almost made her drop the little pitcher. A moment later she admitted Bob and, wonder of all wonders, Louise.

"Why, how are you felt, dear," said Louise, as Helen's eyes filled with tears.

"But you shouldn't have done this," Helen protested. "Why, I was coming over to Bob to offer to come over, but not you, Louise; it's too much."

"Nonsense! You needed me."

"Warren told me that he was going to the lodge, that's absolutely all I know," she said piteously.

"And I don't know anything more myself, excepting that I was surprised he wasn't there. We had only a short meeting. I was home at ten-thirty."

"Don't you want to curl up here on the davenport, dear?" coaxed Louise. "Then you could be resting. Bob and I are going to stay with you."

"I couldn't rest," moaned Helen. "Where can Warren be?"

"Don't worry, Helen dear, he may be perfectly all right."

"But something must be wrong, you know that something must be wrong."

"I wish I knew somewhere to telephone," said Bob, "but I feel so helpless, I haven't an idea in the world where we could find out anything about Warren."

Three o'clock struck in silvery chimes from the little French clock on the mantel. Helen put down her coffee cup and at that moment the telephone rang.

LOUISE TRIES TO COMFORT HELEN

Bob sprang to answer it, and a moment later was asking who it was, while the two women stood by and waited.

"Mrs. Curtis? No, but this is her brother, what is it? Yes, this is where Mr. Warren Curtis lives, what about him? Accident? You will say."

"Oh," moaned Helen. "Oh, Louise, I told you so. What shall we do?"

"Wait and see," said Louise soothingly, we must hear what Warren is saying."

Bob asked a few crisp questions and answered those that were asked in clean cut monosyllables. Helen and Louise could get very little from what he was saying. And when he finally rang off they both gathered around him anxiously.

"Tell us as quickly as possible dear, said Louise; Helen is terribly upset.

Bob looked at Helen's white face and burning eyes pityingly.

"Now don't be too frightened Helen," he protested, "but Warren has had an accident with the car."

"The car," burst out both women simultaneously.

"Yes, I don't know much about it. Warren is detained at one of the precinct stations down town. He isn't hurt, Helen, and that's all they told me," said Bob, "I'm going right down now, and you and Louise had better try to get some rest before we need you."

Bob hurried away in a few moments and Helen turned to Louise, tears streaming down her cheeks.

"He must have had someone with him," she anguished despairingly.

Louise put her arm around Helen's trembling figure and led her into the bedroom. "Nonsense, dear," she remonstrated, "now you lie down here and try to get some sleep. I am going to be right here beside you. Everything is sure to be all right, and Bob will do everything necessary. You must be patient and wait."

ONLY SIXTEEN GIRL VERY SICK

Tells How She Was Made Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

New Orleans, La.—"I take pleasure in writing these lines to express my gratitude to you for what only 16 years old and work in a tobacco factory. I have been a very sick girl, but I have improved wonderfully since taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and am now looking fine and feeling a thousand times better." —MISS AMELIA JAQUILLARD, 1361 Tehoupitoulas St., New Orleans, La.

St. Clair, Pa.—"My mother was alarmed because I was troubled with suppression and had pains in my back and side, and severe headaches. I did not menstruate for a long time, my complexion was sallow, my sleep was disturbed, I had nervous spells, was very tired and had no ambition. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has worked like a charm in my case and has restored me. I worked in a mill among hundreds of girls and have recommended your medicine to many of them."—MISS ESTELLA MAGUIRE, 110 Thwing St., St. Clair, Pa.

There is nothing that teaches more than experience. Therefore, such letters from girls who have suffered and were restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound should be a lesson to others. The same remedy is within reach of all.

No one sick with woman's ailments does justice to herself if she does not try this famous medicine made from roots and herbs. It has restored so many suffering women to health.

FILENE MAKES FIRST SPEECH FOR WALSH

FALL RIVER, Oct. 26.—Governor Walsh's tour of the Cape ended here early today when he was accorded one of the greatest demonstrations ever given a Governor in this city.

Three large audiences greeted him at different rallies. At a rally in the centre of the city the crowd waited until after 11:30 to hear him expound the doctrines of the Democratic party. After this rally he was forced to speak from his automobile outside the hall to a huge overflow gathering.

Edward A. Filene, president of the William Filene Sons Company of Boston, made his first appearance as a political speaker at a rally in Anawan Hall.

He was accorded an enthusiastic reception and made a lengthy speech in which he urged the re-election of the Governor. He said that the re-election of the Governor is necessary to prevent the standpat forces from again gaining control of the State government.

He made much of his eulogy of the two terms of Governor Walsh, saying that never had Massachusetts had such a progressive and true Governor for the people.

Governor Walsh said:

"The voters want to know, the working men of the State have a right to know, Mr. McCall, upon whose orders, or by whose influence the definite declaration for eight-hour shifts was rejected and the ambiguous declaration of 'reasonable hours and conditions' was substituted. Are the same interests which wrote this labor plank of the platform to be the judges of what are 'reasonable hours and conditions' in the making of labor legislation in the next Legislature?

"The working men of Massachusetts have still fresh in their minds the scenes upon the night before, and upon the morning of the Republican convention, when the platform committee of that party was considering the planks presented to it by Progressive leaders for an eight-hour shift in industries in continuous operation for twenty-four hours and a definite declaration for social insurance.

"Mr. McCall is one of the many stand-patters who believes that the people are not fit to govern themselves," declared Mr. Filene. "There has come a revolt against this type of government which as a result there has come national legislation that has preserved for the people the great mineral and forest wealth and the great water-power of the public domain.

"There has come a better control over that business that considered itself a law unto itself and over railroad management of the past New Haven type, the San Francisco and the Rhode Island.

"There has come the direct election by the people of United States Senators and other similar reforms. In this State, as the result, Governor Walsh was elected and he has kept pace in his achievements along this line with the national record.

"Governor Walsh has proven his belief in legislation for better homes, education, health and wages and better provisions for savings and old age through the savings bank insurance.

"In my mind he should be re-elected and you voters should see to it that he is returned as your Governor by a tremendous vote."

Probation for Dee on Support Charge

LOWELL, Oct. 26.—Maurice L. Dee of the Lowell baseball club has been placed on probation on a charge of non-support of his bride of five weeks. In court Dee was rebuked by Judge Enright on the bride's complaint that her husband had called her a name in the courtroom.

Judge Enright asked a court officer and a lawyer if they heard Dee, and when they stated that they had not heard him, Judge Enright said to Dee:

"I have no doubt but that the expression was used, as it is language commonly used on the ball field, and if I could find any one to corroborate Mrs. Dee's claim I would sentence you to thirty days for contempt of court."

On Saturday Judge Enright was incorrectly quoted as having said to Dee: "You can't pull any of that rough baseball stuff in this court." This was a mistake, as the judge did not make such a statement.

False Death Report Distresses Parents

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Schellenberg of Parkman street, Brookline, were much distressed yesterday through the insertion in several newspapers of a notice of the "death" of their son, Harold M. Schellenberg, an eighteen-year-old Brookline High School senior. The lad is in the best of health, and his parents believe the notice was inserted either by a practical joker or some maliciously inclined person or persons.

MOTOR NOTES

By J. C. KERRISON.

American automobile manufacturers doubled their sales abroad in the fiscal year ending June 30, last, according to the latest government review. During the last year cars to the value of $74,000,000 in round figures were exported, as against $38,000,000 worth during the previous year.

J. W. Maguire, Boston distributer for Pierce-Arrow cars, has just returned this morning from an extensive tour through Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont and the Dominion of Canada, visiting both Montreal and Quebec.

The latest puncture-proof compound on the market is a composition of ground cork, mica, rubber preservative and rubber adhesive, known as Kor-ker, manufactured by the Alcania Chemical Company of Cambridge. The manufacturers contend that by use of this compound a motor tire cannot be punctured.

To prove this contention a public demonstration will be made at the Paige salesrooms on Newbury street on Thursday afternoon, next.

NEW ENGLAND SICK GET BACK HEALTH

Victims of Digestive Disorders Tell of Wonderful Effect of Remedy.

Many New England stomach sufferers and, in fact, people all over the United States, have found remarkable results from the use of Mayr's Wonderful Remedy.

Hundreds in this State alone have taken this remedy and tell its effects come quickly—the first dose convinces; no long treatment. Here is what two who have taken it say:

MRS. S. E. JOHNSON, 61 Whitmore street, Hartford, Conn., wrote: "My pains left me the next day after taking the treatment. It is simply wonderful how it relieved me."

MRS. CLARE SHAW, 493 Dexter St., Providence, R. I., wrote: "I received your treatment and it saved my life. I am better now than I have been for twenty years."

Mayr's Wonderful Remedy gives permanent results to stomach, liver and intestinal ailments. Eat as much and whatever you like. No more distress after eating, pressure of gas in the stomach and around the heart. Get this book of your druggist or write Dr. Mayr & Son, 20 Mayr Building, Buffalo, N. Y., for free copy. IF HAIR IS TURNING GRAY, USE SAGE TEA

Here's Grandmother's Recipe to Darken and Beautify Faded Hair.

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray, streaked and looks dry, wispy and scraggy, just an application or two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't bother to prepare the tonic; you can get from any drug store a 50-cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," ready for use. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color, thickness and lustre of your hair and remove dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair.

Everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy, lustrous and abundant.—Advertisement.

SOUTH STATION TUBE MAY BE OPEN XMAS.

Subway travel will open at Christmastime, from the South Station, up Summer street, to all connecting points, according to an estimate made in the twenty-first annual report of the Boston Transit Commission, published today. Allowing for all contingencies, the formal opening of this new section of the tunnel is expected next March, at the latest.

The total cost to the city of Boston for all its tunnels and subways was $20,602,758.85, up to the date of compiling the statistics contained in this report—dated June 30. This is exclusive of the amounts paid by the Elevated for tracks and maintenance equipment, or the thousands paid by the city for new construction since that date.

'CASCARETS' FOR YOUR BOWELS IF HEADACHY, SICK

For biliousness, bad breath, colds, indigestion and constipation.

Enjoy life! Liven your liver and bowels tonight and feel fine.

Your tongue is coated! Look inside your watch cover and see. That's bad business. What have you been eating? What were you drinking? What kind of a lazy chair did you take exercise in? Now don't think it doesn't matter, because it's your bowels that talk now every time you open your mouth. That can get from any drug store a 50-cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," ready for use. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color, thickness and lustre of your hair and remove dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair.

Everybody uses "Wyeth's" Sage and Sulphur because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. TODAY'S STOCK MARKET

By W. H. ROSS, Financial Editor

Stocks in the last hour were irregular with a downward tendency. Realization selling was resumed after midday. Foreign selling of rails was a factor. Trading slackened before the bears began raiding and was active under liquidation. American Zinc sold at a record high in Boston early in the day. In New York, Westinghouse sold at its highest in three years. Canadian Pacific and Pennsylvania at their highest for this year and Southern Pacific touched its highest of last year. By afternoon foreign exchange rates had advanced. London in New York was 2.15 included Baldwin 1¼, Bethlehem 10, Central Leather 2⅝, Crucible 2, Distillers 1¾, General Electric 1¾, Maxwell 6½, Mexican Petroleum 1⅜, Atchison ½, Baltimore & Ohio ⅝, Lehigh Valley ¾, New York Central ¼ and Inspiration ⅝.

Among gains were Canadian Pacific 1⅜, Chesapeake & Ohio ¼, New Haven ½, Southern Pacific ¾, St. Paul ½, Union Pacific ¼, Brooklyn Island ¾, Alaska Gold ⅜, Utah ¼, Tennessee ⅝, Studebaker ½, Goodrich ½ and U. S. Steel ¼. The list was well below its highest for the day.

Among gains in Boston were Alaska Gold ¼, Boston & Montana ¼, Calumet & Arizona 1, Copper Range 1¼, Granby 1½, Greene-Cananea ¼, Isle Royale 1, Osceola 2⅛, Mohawk 1½, Tamarack 1, Wolverine 1, New Haven 1, Boston & Maine 1½. Included in Atlantic Gulf common ¼ and American Zinc ⅛. In the curb market feature was the advance in coppers.

RAILWAY SHARES STRONGER.

Railway shares were stronger in New York, being the most prominent class in the second hour after opening on a higher level. Erie was the most conspicuous in early trading, selling above 40 for the first time since 1907. The majority of issues began with advances, but the list soon weakened in spots. A number of industrials declined. Maxwell opened a new high record price. Rising prices of steels contributed to this. Throughout the list fluctuations averaged little. U. S. Steel was dealt in to a moderate extent and advanced. Much of the market hesitancy at present is ascribed to doubt as to what action the steel directors will take on the common dividend. No distribution of today's meeting is expected by Wall Street and traders in general. The short interest in this issue has been cut down. Buying is more aggressive and insist another reaction is coming. There is no profit taking on considerable scale after orders to buy had been filled. The list became irregular and lower in the afternoon there were few stocks which had gains of importance. Those to show largest gains were American Smelting, Anaconda, Utah, China, Canadian Pacific, Reading, New York Central, Norfolk & Western, Southern Pacific and Union Pacific. War stocks were quieter. Big margin requirements is taming speculation in this group. They are also deemed vulnerable. There was no abatement of public interest in the market, but outsiders were rebuked with caution. Trading was of good volume. Foreign exchange opened a shade firmer, but good bulgers are not hopeful of much rise in rates. There is more talk than ever that dollar exchange will become a reality. The trade balance for last week favored this country to the extent of $70,609,462 and for four weeks to the extent of $202,000,000.

ZINCS WERE ACTIVE HERE.

Prices were quite firm in Boston at the opening and business was of fair volume. Zincs were active issues, with Butte & Superior strong. Not much interest was shown at first in coppers, but they were more in demand later when this class advanced 1 to ½. There was some improvement for local stocks in general. It is rumored foreign buyers have resumed copper metal purchasing on a large scale. In London spot and futures were off £6 and cash quotations unchanged. Lead advanced 1s. 3d. and spelter declined £1. Demand for the latter has increased in this country, spelter prospects continue to be good.

OUR FIRST DUTY IS TO MAINTAIN PEACE; OUR NEXT DUTY IS TO PREPARE FOR WAR

A Railroad's Revenge Against Former President Roosevelt

Mr. McCall Supported the Railroads in Their Fight Against President Roosevelt's Law to Extend the Regulating Power of the Government Over Them. The Investigation Going on in New Hampshire Reveals an Extraordinary Story of Railroad Revenge.

THEY are holding an investigation concerning the expenses incurred by the Boston & Maine Railroad in New Hampshire for the purpose of affecting legislation in that State.

In the course of this investigation it was discovered that there had been paid by the Concord & Montreal, a part of the Boston & Maine Railroad system, an item on account of "EXPENSES ON TAFT MATTERS IN DOVER."

The man who incurred this expense was asked on the witness stand: "UNDER WHAT THEORY WAS THIS CHARGED UP AGAINST THE CONCORD & MONTREAL?"

The witness answered:

"THERE WAS NOT ANY THEORY EXCEPT TO GET TAFT DELEGATES. I KNEW THAT MR. KIMBALL WANTED TAFT DELEGATES."

Kimball was president of the Concord & Montreal and was acting for the Boston & Maine Railroad.

Several days ago the same investigation revealed to us the fact that the Boston & Maine, mostly through this man Kimball, had poured out the money of the people of New England in New Hampshire to prevent the Grand Trunk Railroad from coming to Boston, an event which the business men of Boston and New England worked so hard to bring to pass.

THE MONEY OF THE PEOPLE WAS SPENT TO FIGHT AGAINST THE PEOPLE'S INTERESTS!

These Taft delegates were for the last Republican National Convention, where Roosevelt and Taft opposed each other for the Republican nomination for President.

The railroads, assisted by Republican Candidate McCall, were fighting Roosevelt because he had forced a law through Congress giving the Interstate Commerce Commission power to investigate and regulate just such corrupt transactions as is revealed in this item for "EXPENSES ON TAFT MATTERS IN DOVER."

These "EXPENSES ON TAFT MATTERS IN DOVER" are not unusual. They are not surprising.

Intelligent people know that this is the regular practice of the railroads and other public utilities.

We quote it merely because it has just come to light. Tomorrow some other similar story will make this ancient history.

Those who oppose the public ownership of the public utilities like our railroads, street railways, telephone and telegraph companies have one stock argument.

It is the one argument that appeals to a great many honest, patriotic citizens.

While the sentiment for public ownership, if it were fairly canvassed in this country, would be found to be overwhelming, yet if it were not for this one stock argument which inspires fear and hesitation in the minds of many honest but uninformed people, the sentiment for public ownership would be almost unanimous.

That one argument which has had persuasive force is that if the government should take control of these great corporations and run them as it runs the postoffice it would put the power of these corporations into politics and would endanger our institutions.

Long, long ago the better-informed citizens ceased to be frightened by this transparent pretence, because long, long ago they discovered that these corporations are ALREADY exercising tremendous political power, and that the power which they are NOW exercising in politics is ALREADY threatening our institutions.

Of course, when it is plainly and painfully obvious that these public service corporations ALREADY meddle in politics, the argument that public ownership would put the power of these corporations into politics possesses more comic than convincing qualities.

Even if we admit that the government would employ the resources of these corporations for partisan purposes, yet if they are ALREADY being used for this purpose by the PRIVATE individuals who control them, then there certainly would be no danger of any damaging change in conditions.

But those who believe in public ownership do not for a moment believe that the power of these corporations ever would or ever could be used by the government for purely partisan purposes.

The example of Germany, England, France, Italy, Switzerland, Australia, New Zealand and almost all the great nations of the earth which have already taken over or are taking over their great railroad systems shows beyond doubt that railroads are not made the instruments of political tyranny when the government takes control of them.

On the other hand, they cease to be the instruments of political tyranny and corruption the moment they are taken and operated by the government.

Switzerland was the most corrupt government in Europe when her railroads were in private hands.

In utter despair, the Swiss people adopted a device called the Initiative and Referendum, by which they took the control of their government out of the hands of the legislators of their States and of their federal government, and took it into their own hands.

Then with the power thus acquired by the Initiative and Referendum, they took possession of the railroads.

Now, only a few years later, as all the world knows, Switzerland has become the purest democracy in the world and the purest government.

The German government owns its railroads. More than half the German cities own their street railways. Nearly all of them own their gas and electric light companies.

They develop their own waterfronts and wharves. They, the cities, NOT THE INDIVIDUALS, but the CITIES THEMSELVES, buy land and develop it, increase its value for taxation and turn it into some public service.

The CITIES plant forests and cut them, and in that CROWDED country they make the crop of trees pay them large dividends.

In this country our individual, irresponsible methods, which always follow the maxim, "This will last as long as we do, after us the deluge," are wasting our forests and wasting our natural resources.

Nearly every city in England owns its own street railways.

Great Britain has just taken over its telephone and telegraph companies, and now operates them as part of the postoffice.

Most of her great cities own and operate their gas and electric light companies. She has just nationalized her railroads.

Only the United States and the backward little nations, some in South America and some in the outskirts of Europe, are not taking those steps which are the indication of progress; to wit, the acquisition of their great public utilities.

But not only do the more intelligent of our citizens understand perfectly that the railroads would not be made instruments of partisanship and danger if acquired by the public, but they know, on the other hand, that in the control of private individuals these railroads have ever since the first railroad tie was laid BEEN THE GREAT SOURCES OF POLITICAL CORRUPTION IN THIS GOVERNMENT.

So long as these great corporations are in the control of private interests, just so long will their great power be used to corrupt our public life, control our political parties, prostitute the intellect of men like Root, nominate Presidents, Governors, judges, legislators, promote the dangerous concentration of wealth, establish a permanent plutocratic class among us and hold our country back in the march of nations toward better conditions.

Already the other leading nations have caught up with and passed us in the great social reforms like workingmen's compensation, minimum wage laws, old-age pensions, public insurance against accidents and sickness, public amusements, free public markets, financial assistance to the farmers in times when they need it to harvest their crops, State assistance to the workingmen to own their own homes and other social welfare measures.

Why are we, who once had so great a start over every other nation, now lagging behind so miserably? The answer lies in the little item, "EXPENSES ON TAFT MATTERS IN DOVER," and all the BIG corruption, obstruction and reaction that this LITTLE item signifies.

IS THIS PICTURE SO SHOCKING?

Would it really destroy the government and tear our fine republic to pieces if this should happen?

Would a brother and sister, or a young husband and wife walking to the polls, followed by an older man and his wife, voting together for good government and decency—would a picture of that kind shock you so very much?

Do you really think that a woman is fit to marry, fit to create and educate children, yet not fit to vote?

You wouldn't marry an Indian or an idiot, the two other kinds of adults not allowed to vote in the United States.

But is not your mother, your wife, your sister, different from the Indian, different from the idiot? Would the country really be endangered if men and women went to the polls, as you see them in this picture, consulting with each other first, voting for good government?

Could anything do more than this to uplift government and make politics respectable? VOTE FOR WOMAN SUFFRAGE.

Corporate Profligacy

A motorman whose presence of mind and cold nerve saved a three-thousand-dollar car and the lives of fifty passengers was awarded $250 by the New York Railways Company. If that is the way traction concerns are throwing their money about it is no wonder that the stockholders complain of meagre dividends.

Set No Other Place Above Thy Home

"The Little Gods of the Household Are Jealous Gods"

By Dorothy Dix

THIS is the ninth commandment of matrimony:

THOU SHALT EXALT NO OTHER PLACE ABOVE THY HOME; NEITHER THY BUSINESS OFFICE NOR THY BRIDGE TABLE, NOR ANY CAUSE SHALT THOU PUT BEFORE THY HOME, NOR NEGLECT THY HOME FOR IT.

If the true corespondent were named in the majority of divorce suits it would not be some blond-haired siren, or some romantic-looking Lothario. It would be Business, or Society, or the Uplift Movement.

These are responsible for the breaking up of more homes than the whole bunch of wayward impulses and fickle fancies and straying passions. We Americans are not by nature a romantic and sentimental people. Ideals appeal to us more than individuals, and when we make fools of ourselves, and hash of our lives, it is oftener over a Thing than it is a person.

Thus it happens that when the average American man neglects his wife and leaves her to go her own gait alone; when he is so little acquainted with his children that they think of him as that man who comes here every Sunday, and when he has to consult his address book to see where he lives, it is not because some other woman has stolen his affections away from their legitimate owner.

He still thinks—when he stops to think of her at all—that his wife is the one woman in the world. He theoretically adores his children, and he spends money lavishly on his home, but these are not the real interests of his life. The thing of his passionate preoccupation, that he thinks of by day and dreams of by night, that his every hope and ambition centres around; the thing that makes his pulses thrill, or sends a chill to the marrow of his bones, is business.

When he returns at night he is too tired to want to go out with her to any place of amusement; too tired even to talk. He never has time to go off on little jaunts with her, and when he does take his pleasure he wants to take it with other men with whom he can converse on the only topics in which he is interested.

Sometimes a woman goes mad after society, and drags her husband down into poverty by trying to keep up with people who are better off than she is. Instead of her home being a spot of peace and rest for husband and children, she makes it a place of wailing and discontent because she cannot have the things she wants. Sometimes she even starves the family that she may give smart entertainments.

Such a woman wrecks her home because she never makes it a place to come to joyfully or to stay in contentedly. Her ideal of happiness is to get away from home to restaurants, to cabarets, to Summer resorts and Winter resorts, wherever the excitement is most fast and furious, and the pace most killing. She has no time to have babies, no leisure to raise children, never a minute to do anything so dull and deadly as to try to entertain a husband and make him comfortable.

The trouble with both men and women is that they do not realize that the little gods of the hearthstone are jealous gods, and that if you flaunt them they fly out of the window. This is why it is important to remember the ninth commandment of matrimony: THOU SHALT EXALT NO OTHER PLACE ABOVE THY HOME; NEITHER THY BUSINESS OFFICE NOR THY BRIDGE TABLE, NOR ANY CAUSE SHALT THOU PUT BEFORE THY HOME, NOR NEGLECT THY HOME FOR IT.
